LAVAL NAMES NEW CABINET AT VICHY TODAY

French Premier Takes Over Amid Reports of Growing Hatred for Him.

By The Associated Press

Grimly, pro-German Pierre Laval formed his new cabinet today in a highly explosive situation created by efforts of widespread unrest against Laval among the French population.

Laval's new government is geared toward increased collaboration with Germany. He kept three key posts—foreign affairs, interior and information — for himself.

To assist him in the foreign ministry, Laval named two of his most trusted assistants. Count Fernand De Brinon, present Vichy ambassador to the German authorities in occupied France, and Jacques Benoistmechin, former American news corespondent and previously a Vichy representative in Paris.

Paul Marion, secretary of state for information, remained in his post. Laval drafted two departmental prefects to help him in the interior ministry — Georges Hilaire, internal administration, and Robert Bousquet, police.

Darlan Not Listed

Admiral Rene Platon, former minister of colonies, was also named as one of Laval's assistants although his functions on the new government leader's staff was not clearly defined.

The official government list omitted the name of Admiral Jean Darlan, former vice premier and heir-designate to Marshal Petain whose position as commander in chief of all French armed forces had been confirmed earlier in the day of official decree.

Washington advices said Laval's opponents in France were already planning to unseat him, and that the new premier was prepared to go the limit in forcing the conquered nation to collaborate with the Nazis.

Simultaneously, a new belligerency in the French armed forces was reflected in reports from Casablanca, French Morocco, stating that French fighter planes took to the air yesterday when a British bomber circles over the naval base and airport and then flew off.

French officials said the twin-motored RAF bomber disappeared as soon as French pursuit planes rose to meet it.

Informed quarters in Wsahington said Laval might be expected to launch a military campaign to protect Syria or French equatorial Africa from Gen. Charles De Gaulle's Free French forces.

By this means, it was said, Laval hoped to divert allied strength from other fronts to defend these strategic areas and thus give Adolf Hitler almost as much help as if he turned over the French fleet to Germany—at the risk of a popular revolt.

SENATE FIGHT DUE ON LABOR QUESTION

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 18 — Administration leaders have decided to fight out the whole question of war labor policies on the floor of the senate next week, possibly aided by an expression by President Roosevelt opposing enactment of restrictive measures, an authoritative source said today.

In line with this decision, observers said the senate labor committee was likely to approve Monday a bill by Senator Ball (R-Minn) providing restrictions on wages and union activity.

The bill would establish a labor disputes commission which could approve increases in wages equivalent only to advances in the cost of living or where the increase did not carry the wage above the prevailing scale for that type of work elsewhere. The same conditions would apply to increases in salaries above $5,000 yearly.

Besides setting up mediation and arbitration machinery, the measure would ban the institution of closed shops, with some exceptions.

NINE TO START PRISON TERMS

L. A. Cratty Among Convicted Men Who Begin Federal Sentences Monday.

L. A. Cratty of Marion, one of the 33 men convicted on charges of either using the mails to defraud or conspiracy in the Forest Glen, Inc. case, is among nine who will start serving their terms Monday in federal penitentiaries, U. S. Marshal Chob Sisson said in Columbus yesterday.

Only five of the 33 have not filed appeal motions in the Sixth District Circuit Court at Cincinnati. Mr. Cratty is one of four who have appealed and elected to begin their prison sentences to receive credit for their time in prison in the event the appeals court sustains the decision of the Columbus federal court.

The four are Mr. Cratty (a year and a day), R. S. Trafton of Jamestown, N. Y. (five years), W. C. DeWeese of Columbus (two years) and H. C. Van Gilder of Columbus (a year and a day).

Appeals have not been filed by Troy Wildermuth of Columbus (a year and a day), Howard Dustin of Westerville (two years), William Bennett of Washington, D. C. (a year and a day), Karl G. Snyder of Washington C. H. (18 months) and William Rothert of Columbus (18 months).

All of the nine men were fined $1,000 each in addition to their prison sentences.

Defendants sentenced to 18 months or less by Federal Judge Robert R. Nevin will be taken to the new federal penal institution at Ashland, Ky.; those given heavier sentences will be taken to the Lewisburg, Pa., penitentiary. More than 20 who have appealed are still held at Columbus city prison pending arraignment for bond, it was announced today.

Grant E. Mouser Jr., who has been retained as attorney for several of the appellants, said today the following bond has been set for five of his clients: Earl Pardee of Findlay, $7,500; G. F. Stott of Springfield, $5,000; C. F. Walter, Carl Bennman and G. F. Buck, all of Cleveland, $7,500 each. Mr. Mouser said negotiations are now being conducted for release of the men on bond.

15,000 TREES BEING SET OUT AT CAMP

Boy Scout Area Scene of Big Planting Program.

Some 15,000 trees, obtained through the efforts of O. H. Neimeyer, county game warden, are being set out at Boy Scout Camp John A. Owens, south of town. Fred Strother, Harding area Boy Scout executive, said he believed this was one of the largest plantings ever made in the county. The trees are intended to provide protection for game as well as to prevent soil erosion.

R. M. Miller, district commissioner, is in charge of the planting, in which Boy Scouts are helping. The trees were received a week ago and planting has continued intermittently since. Mr. Strother said that more trees were to be set out today with the aid of Boy Scous and that the job shoud be finished within a week. They are being panted in the west field along Gooding pike.

BRITAIN JUBILANT OVER TOKYO RAID

Chinese Capital Also Hails Attack on Japanese.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, April 18—Britain's jubilation over the first air raids on Japan was splashed today across the front pages of early afternoon newspapers.

"And now Tokyo—Noon Raid by Allied Planes" said a two-line banner in Lord Beaverbrook's Evening Standard which published a large map of Japan with its story of the raids.

The Evening Standard, the Star and the Evening News all gave subordinate treatment to Britain's own around-the-clock air offensive against Germany and German-occupied territory.

CHUNGKING, April 18—Word of the bombing of Japan spread through this Chinese capital today with a profoundly exhilerating effect and was cheered as the "best news of the war."

"Now they are getting their own medicine," said Chinese who have had their own homes battered by Japanese bombers.

Official quarters withheld comment pending further reports.

Bricker Asks Funds for Civilian Defense

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 18—Allocation of $2,000,000 in unexpended poor relief funds to the various counties for use in war relief or civilian defense work was urged today by the state defense board at Gov. Bricker's request.

Bricker said he would appear Monday, for the first time during his administration, before the state board of control to urge transfer of a surplus from the poor relief to the civilian defense fund.

The governor said that $1,500,000 of the $10,000,000 poor relief appropriation for 1941 had not been spent, and predicted another $500,000 saving from the 1942 funds.

JAPS' BATAAN GUNS SILENCED

Corregidor Cannon Blast Enemy Communications; Cebu Taken.

By The Associated Press

The war department reported today that Corregidor's guns silenced several additional enemy batteries and blasted roads and bridges on the nearby Philippines' Bataan peninsula, disrupting Japanese communications.

Siege fire continued throughout yesterday, a communique said, but its intensity decreased somewhat, and little damage was declared to have been done on Corregidor.

Cebu, the island's second city, has been occupied by the invaders, the war department said reports indicated. The city was reported to be burning but fierce fighting continued on the island of the same name on which the city itself is situated.

On the island of Panay, also in the central Philippines, enemy invasion forces meanwhile were being "vigorously opposed" by the defenders, the communique said.

Developments in the Far Pacific theater:

Philippines—Japanese dispatches said Japanese planes cooperating with land troops dispersed a force of 3,000 American-Filipino defense soldiers 12 miles north of Cebu city, on Cebu island, 250 miles south of Manila.

Domei said the defenders were routed from their hill positions and "fled in confusion into the hinterland, leaving 350 dead and many prisoners."

Domei also asserted that Japanese troops invading Panay island, just north of Cebu, had occupied Pavia, and that the Japanese flag had been hoisted over the main port city of Iloilo, 25 miles south of Pavia.

Burma War Front — British troops fighting a dogged rearguard action more than 200 miles north of Rangoon completed the destruction of the rich Yenangyaung oil fields despite Japanese attempts to prevent their demolition, and fell back to new positions.

About 10,000 wells were blown up.

British armored forces were reported attacking Japanese advance guards 18 miles north of Yenangyaung, while on the Chinese-held left flank, Lieut.-Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's troops were said to have beaten off 800 tank-supported Japanese attempting to cross a stream 60 miles east of Toungoo. Losses were heavy on both sides.

Jap People Told Not To Lose Calm in Raids

By The Associated Press

TOKYO (FROM JAPANESE BROADCASTS), April 18 — Domei news agency today quoted Mamoru Shigemitsu, advisor to the foreign office, as advising the Japanese people not to lose their composure as the result of air raids.

"Mr. Shigemitsu who had a good deal of experience with German raids as ambassador in London said in comment here that the Japanese nation need not become worried over 'enemy raids on Japanese cities,'" Domei reported.

"The British," he said, "have endured deluges of bombs for more than two full years. If we lose our composure the Americans and British will gain their ends and both of our

Probable Size of War Plant Construction Force Reported

Number at Scioto Plant Expected To Be About One-Third of Ravenna Total; Clark School Club Disbands.

Information about the probable number of workers in construction of the Scioto Ordnance Plant and tentative details of a program of recreational activities planned for them appears in a statement by S. E. Hunkin of the Hunkin-Conkey Construction Co., in the second issue of the plant's weekly newspaper, published yesterday.

Other news developments related to the ordnance plant included an announcement by the land acquisition office that it has passed the half-way mark in optioning the plant site and hopes to finish this phase of its work next week.

Still another development was the final meeting of the Clark School Community club last night. The school soon will be taken over by the government.

Size of Construction Force Indicated

Information about the probable number of workers to be employed in construction of the Scioto Ordnance Plant, an extensive recreational program planned for them and the first steps toward construction of a commissary at the site for the workers is contained in the second issue of the plant's weekly newspaper, out yesterday.

Most of this information is included in a statement to the public by S. E. Hunkin, vice president of the Hunkin-Conkey Construction Co. building the plant. He said the number of construction employes here is expected to be about one-third of the total employed in building the Ravenna Ordnance Plant. It is understood around 14,000 workers helped build that plant, a basis which includes somewhere around 4,000 employes for the Scioto plant.

Regarding the recreational activities planned, Mr. Hunkin pointed out that the likelihood of "fine parades, some good ball teams and perhaps a construction company band and a red hot rhythm band". He added that magicians, theatrical performers, circus people and others with talent for entertainment are among the employes, many of them in professional entertainment work only a few years ago.

The commissary plans are in their first stages with a sandwich stand to be completed yet this week or early next week. A large commissary will be built at the site soon, for workers, the paper reported.

The paper also stated that the Scioto Ordnance Plant will become the ninth defense industry for the U. S. Rubber Co., if anticipated arrangements for the company to operate the plant are completed.

This issue of the paper also brings its official name, "Scioto News", selected in a contest judged by Lt. Col. John Huling Jr., commanding officer. Author of the name is H. R. Olson, of Holabird & Root, architect-engineer for the project.

The ratio of construction employment of the Scioto plant with the one at Ravenna was given by Mr. Hunkin in a statement addressed to the citizens of Marion.

Statement to Marion

The statement follows:

"I suppose most of you are wondering what effect the influx of construction workers will mean to you. From the experience of observing a similar situation at Ravenna where perhaps three times as many men were employed as will be here, I can truthfully say you will be agreeably surprised.

"Your daughters will be just as safe on the streets as they were before. Your movies will be more crowded and Saturday nights will see your sidewalks more active with men in from camps. Your traffic regulation will become more acute and parking will be a nuisance. Your stores will be more crowded and stocks and inventories will no doubt be reduced quickly.

"There will be a few more arrests but surprisingly few as most of these men are saving their money and have families at home who are dependent on the nomad father or brother. These men are fearful of the aftermath of the program and are saving against the rainy day. There will be a small percentage who will not be welcome here and they won't stay here long. Fingerprinting will clean out some undesirables and when all the men here have passed that inspection, the rating percentage of desirables in the construction crews will be much higher than your present population.

"You will have a boom here, both during construction and later in operation. Your merchants will like it but some of you won't. However, the residents of the farms, who had to move on such short notice, are the ones who really suffered inconvenience, to say the least. However, we are all subject to give up something during this emergency and what we

Optioning of Scioto Ordnance Plant Properties Passes Half-Way Mark

With more than half of the job completed, the land acquisition office of the army engineers prepared today to wind up the task of taking options on farms in the Scioto Ordnance Plant area. The coming week is expected to finish this phase of the work.

William Piers, project manager, said officials are pleased by the cooperation the land owners have shown.

Some of the steps that led to the placing of valuations on the properties by men working through the land acquisition office were revised today by officials.

One of the first steps is the visit of one or more appraisers to each farm. These visits were so arranged as to give each property owner an opportunity to be present when the appraiser called or to have a representative accompany the appraiser in his inspection of each farm.

Test borings were made to determine the depth of the soil and sub-soil, and an examination was made to determine the productivity of the soil. Such factors as drainage and fencing were figured in. Allowances were made for standing crops, even for plowing that had been done in anticipation of spring planting.

Of the dozens of farms entering into the valuation, some are turnover in ownership of the farm in recent years, productivity of the farm by electric power, rural electrification, modern buildings and condition of

BATTLE OF PRODUCTION PASSES TURNING POINT

Nelson Tells Editors U. S. Can See Daylight Ahead.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, April 18 — The United States has "passed the turning point" in war production and the output of the United Nations today exceeds that of the axis powers—that is the statement of Donald M. Nelson, chairman of the war production board.

"We can see daylight ahead in our whole production effort," he told the American Society of Newspaper Editors last night.

Nelson coupled his optimism with caution, however, pointing out that today's production figures do not mean "that we are going to end the war next month or that we can start our armies to the offensive."

"It is safe to predict that by the end of the year we shall have overcome the enemy's margin of superiority in the air, on the seas and on the land," Nelson said, the editors' forum on, he added, "we shall have

RAIDERS STRIKE AT NOON WITH BOMB LOADS

Assault Stirs Bitter Outcries in Tokyo; Planes Come from Many Directions.

By The Associated Press

Warplanes bearing the United States insignia bombed Tokyo and at least three other great Japanese cities for the first time in history today, strewing death and destruction across an 800-mile trail in a bold daylight assault that stirred bitter outcries from the Japanese people.

The raiders, striking at high noon, dropped four-pound incendiaries and high-explosives in the industrial suburbs of the capital and also attacked Yokohama, Nagoya and Kobe.

The Japanese embassy in Buenos Aires, Argentina, said flatly the attacking planes were American.

The raids began at 12:30 p. m., Tokyo time, and the all-clear sounded three hours and 20 minutes later, the embassy said.

Tokyo reports insisted that only schools, hospitals and residential sections were hit, and that the damage was "slight." No bombs fell in Tokyo itself, it was said, but two capital theaters cancelled their matinees.

Urged To Be Calm

While the Japanese bitterly assailed what they described as "indiscriminate bombing," the Tokyo radio quoted a high Japanese official as urging the populace not to become panicky.

"The British have endured deluges of bombs for more than two full years. If we lose our composure, the Americans and British will clap their hands and laugh at us," said Mamoru Shigemitsu, Tokyo foreign office adviser.

Imperial Tokyo headquarters said the raiders—which possibly operated from U. S. aircraft carriers lying hundreds of miles off Japan—showered small incendiary bombs in the Tokyo vicinity and asserted the missles "were not capable of causing serious damage."

Domei reported that no damage was done in the immediate neighborhood of the Mikado's imperial palace, in the aristocratic Kojimachi quarter where the embassies, legations and government buildings are situated.

"The imperial family is safe," a communique said.

The Japanese command acknowledged that the surprise assault sprang air-raid alarms through three of the four main islands of Japan.

Nine planes were reported shot down, indicating that the attackers were in considerable numbers. Even a ten per cent loss is considered high, and on this basis as many as 90 planes may have taken part in the spectacular foray.

Washington Silent

All reports on the raid came from Japan, with Washington official quarters silent for many hours, presumably to guard against giving information to the enemy regarding the base or bases from which the planes operated.

Identification of the planes came from a Tokyo broadcast which asserted:

"American planes raided Tokyo for the first time, bombing hospitals . . . dropping bombs on the Tokyo suburbs where there are no military objectives but residents, houses and schools."

Tokyo is the world's third largest city, with a population of 7,000,000.

Japanese eye-witnesses said the raiders were undoubtedly United States warplanes, with the red, white and blue star insignia plainly discernible.

This would mean that the planes were flown by United States army and navy fliers, and were not merely American-made planes flown by Chinese or other allied pilots.

The destructive hail of fire and explosive bombs and fear of the raiders' deadly cargoes set air-raid alarms sounding across more than 800 miles of the island empire.

Striking widely over the island empire, the raiders pounded Kobe, a seaport of 1,000,000, which lies 370 miles below Tokyo, and the manufacturing centers of Nagoya (pop. 1,000,000), while air-raid warnings sounded in several cities of the Inland Sea and Kyushu, the most distant of the Japanese archipelago.

A Japanese broadcast acknowledged casualties in Tokyo [illegible] other planes were

First Church of Brethren Arranges Rededication Services for Sunday

FIRST CHURCH OF THE BRETHREN

Extensive Improvements and Expansion Program Made Possible by Donations of Time and Labor.

First Church of the Brethren at the corner of East Church street and Reed avenue will be re-dedicated Sunday, climaxing a period of alterations which have increased the seating capacity of the auditorium by at least 100 and provided additional Sunday school class rooms. All members, former members, former pastor and friends are invited to join in the service.

The day's program will start at 9:30 a. m., when Rev. J. F. Hornish of Defiance, president of the district ministerial board of northwestern Ohio, and representative of the Church of the Brethren denomination, delivers the re-dedication sermon at the unified service. His subject will be "Building for God." Following the sermon he will conduct the formal re-dedication ceremony.

A basket dinner will be served in the basement.

Former Pastors Invited

Former pastors will speak on an informal program at 2:30 p. m. Among those who will speak are Rev. Walter D. Landes, pastor in 1920-22, now serving a rural church near Lima; Rev. S. L. Cover, pastor in 1933-38, now of Franklin Grove, Ill., and Rev. D. M. Brumbaugh of Danville, O., pastor in 1938-39.

Rev. Glen Baird, Des Moines, Ia., former Marion man who was licensed to preach in a service at First church, also will speak. Messages will be read from former pastors, members and friends who will not be present. A brief history of the congregation will be given by one of the older members.

The evening service will start at 7. Rev. Brumbaugh will conduct devotions. Rev. M. D. Neher of Akron, whose oil painting "The Good Shepherd," was purchased by First Church and now hangs in the panel of the rear pulpit wall, will present a 40-minute program of songs and stories which he will illustrate with three-minute water color paintings Rev. Cover will preach the sermon which will close the program.

Members Donate Labor

The alterations of the church cost in excess of $1,400 and would have been much higher if all labor, except the carpenter and plastering work in connection with the new balcony, had not been donated by members and friends of the church, according to the present pastor, Rev. E. M. Hertzler. Classes, organizations and individuals contributed gifts of money.

Following is a resume of alterations:

Stairway in southwest corner was removed; a floor was placed over the entire rear portion of the basement, the basement was rewired and a new ceiling was placed over the entire area; a kitchen was built; partitions for class rooms were provided and small pews were built to accommodate the children's church; all old heating pipes were removed and a fan was installed in the heating system; new hot and cold air conduits were installed; the baptistry was changed to a position at the rear of the pulpit; a painting, "The Good Shepherd," was hung in the panel of the rear pulpit wall; an electric console was installed with loud speaker for the auditorium and a loud speaker in the cupola above the main vestibule for outdoor broadcasting; all class rooms in the west end of the auditorium and a large brick chimney and ventilating chamber were torn out; a balcony was built across the entire west end of the auditorium and new class rooms were built under the balcony, enclosed by folding doors; all old varnish and paint were removed from the woodwork of the auditorium, pulpit furniture and pews and the entire church repainted and revarnished; floors of the auditorium and class rooms were sanded and refinished and a new aisle carpet laid.

First Service in 1912

The first public religious service of the Church of the Brethren in Marion was held at the Christian church on North Main street on July 7, 1912. That night a service was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Tice who then lived on Nell avenue. On May 25, 1913 the place of worship was changed to 155 Reed avenue, to the house which is now the parsonage.

The congregation was formally organized on July 29, 1918.

The church was erected in the autumn and winter of 1917-18. The first service was conducted on Feb. 10, 1918 and two weeks later the church was dedicated.

Six years ago the pulpit was changed from the north side of the auditorium to the east end and the furniture was rearranged to provide additional space. Last year the need for additional space in the basement became acute and plans were made to use the rear part for class rooms. This project gave impetus to the extensive remodeling of the entire building.

On the committee responsible for the entire remodeling program were Rev. J. S. DeJean of Nevada, a member of the congregation, Glen Willoughby, R. L. Young, L. H. Messenger, Otis Harper and Edward Holler. On the committee to publish the rededication booklet were Rev. Hertzler, R. L. Young, Edward Holler, Mrs. P. E. Weaver, Junior Ballinger and Jane Harper.

The Stars Say—

For Sunday, April 19

SUNDAY'S horoscope holds testimonies of the sudden, surprising, spectacular and sensational, but at basis it should be safe and sane, the denouement depending on which course is pursued to gain the adventure, romance and unique experience indicated. Overdoing in any direction may have its penalties and regrets, so shun extravagance of act, expenditure, emotions and general behavior.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of great if not sensational adventure, which may result in substantial growth, returns and general stability if the spirit of romance, adventure and novelty be directed into safe channels. The great danger is from peculiar friends, strange persons or situations rather than the dramatic urges of themselves.

A child born on this day although fond of the unusual and good things of life yet may possess many solid traits. Its peculiar urges should turn to creative expression and it may attain secure and worthy position in life.

* * *

For Monday, April 20

Monday's astrological forecast is for a continuance of the surprising and unforeseen developments of the affairs, with the promise of a stabilizing result if reason, good judgment and not emotionalism are allowed to hold sway.

Those whose birthday it is may enjoy a thrilling and romantic year, with unpredictable adventures, probably romantic. But be vigilant as to false persons and circumstances in both business and domestic affairs. Shun extravagance, doubtful intrigues.

A child born on this day may have much ingenuity and skill, with many solid traits but may be easily led away by false values and associates.

One Way to Victory

A SERMONETTE

By REV. S. S. HARDY
Rector, St. Paul's Episcopal Church

A[illegible] the many ways in [illegible] all can help win this [illegible] the thoroughly Christian [illegible]geteous indignation.

[illegible]s indignation is the [illegible] to action which mo[illegible]s on more than one

We [illegible]ay resented the [illegible] little children from [illegible]ce for that was a priv[illegible]s He believed should [illegible]ned them. Christ could [illegible]te it purr[illegible] in any form

Nor could He remain [illegible] the presence of wrong, [illegible]he whipped the traders [illegible]Temple.

[illegible]made a clear distinction between hate and righteous indignation for He practiced one and disavowed the [illegible]ther. Christians, therefore, must [illegible]e on the enemies, and [illegible]re to be like Jesus [illegible] not ignore wrong doing because it did not matter. [illegible]n the rights privileges, [illegible]ng the lives of one's [illegible]s are jeopardized ro[illegible]s and act as though [illegible] concern of his And yet [illegible] the attitude of far too [illegible]persons today

[illegible]NEED to be aroused out of [illegible] isolationism, from [illegible]e to human distress, from [illegible]difference to wrong [illegible]al [illegible]en practiced on an [illegible]e scale, and from the [illegible] of detachment in the face [illegible] of [illegible]ntold suffering imposed by [illegible]e ravages upon multitudes in [illegible] Czechoslovakia, Poland, [illegible]ce Belgium, France Nor[illegible]a Greece Yugoslavia the [illegible]s Islands the Philippines [illegible]e the Netherlands Indies

From the most reliable sources [illegible]e have heard of myriads of [illegible]e robbed, raped murdered [illegible]n from their homes by [illegible]apanese. Is that nothing to [illegible]

In Germany many Lutheran [illegible]ters and Roman Catholic [illegible]s have been clapped into [illegible]ncentration camps or otherwise deprived of their office Is [illegible]no concern of ours"

[illegible]ndreds of Czech students [illegible]e been seized by the Germans [illegible]ot to death, and their uni[illegible]s have been closed with [illegible] deliberate purpose of killing all leadership in that country. Are we to be passively indifferent"

THE Poles have been starved to death by the thousands in order to clear that country for the Germans. Should we worry"

Holland has been pillaged and all her diamonds stolen and many of them sold in our country in order to finance fifth column activities here. Does it matter to America"

Belgium's children and other refugees were mowed down in cold blood by the scores with machine gun fire from German planes; great numbers of innocent Frenchmen have been shot as hostages; thousands in Greece have been starved to death; the Japs have tied the hands of living allied soldiers behind their backs and used them for bayonet practice while women and those of other races have been made the prey of vicious enemies!

If in the face of all this we are not stirred to indignation there is something wrong with our righteousness. And if our indignation does not lead to action to help stop this sort of thing, then there is no righteousness in our indignation.

In the heart of every American man, woman, and child there is latent this tremendous psychological incentive to action which we call "righteous indignation." Let us arouse that latent to life and harness it to our war effort. That is one way in which we can all help win the war. And if we do not win it what others have endured will surely be our lot.

"Is it nothing to you all ye that pass by?"

How slender is life's silver cord!

And many a falling tear
And though three years to mortals given,
Are filled with grief and pain
There is a hope, the hope of heaven,
Where loved one's meet again.

Fire Chiefs Prepare for War Emergencies

Fire fighting activities in connection with the war were discussed at a meeting of Ohio fire chiefs today at Columbus, The Associated Press reported. Representing Marion at the meeting is Fire Chief T. J. McFarland, former president of the organization.

Spring

IF ever there was a day when the urge to abandon bed and board, take to the highways and byways and trust to fate for whatever might happen, it was yesterday. There was just that something in the air that made pencils, typewriters and telephones something to be shunned like a pan of warts. We'll probably get used to it and take it for granted just as we did last winter's snow, but there was something different about yesterday. Maybe it was because the trees were not out in full leaf—they just had tiny ones which gave them a filigree effect, the hedges were as new as today's meal check and some up and coming fruit trees were out in blossom to say nothing of the colorful beds of hyacinths and jonquils. We imagine that scores of other folks feel just the same as we do about this business of spring moving in on us so if you call the grocer and he tells you that he's fresh out of butterflies or some secretary or newspaper reporter answers your phone call with the opinion that frogs seem to be croaking in a faster tempo right now, well there's just one answer, springtime's got 'em.

Getting Along

WAR stamps are designed by Uncle Sammy to win the war, but they're also good for something else, such as saving the day when the larder runs low and the budget is low, too. No, they don't sell them—it's better than that. There isn't a pay check that has been in the army very long but what has run out of funds before payday, at some time or another. If you're a home town gal you more than likely can make a touch on some friend whose resistance is at low ebb for the moment, or maybe you're well enough known at your favorite restaurant to sign the check. But out in the big, bad city where landlords have hearts of grindstones and the grocery man can see you wasting away to a shadow without even flinching, it's different. A group of girls employed in a great, great big city, who do their own marketing and cooking, have a grand plan—and it works. They're buying war stamps and keeping them. Then, when the budget is in the red out comes the war stamp book to be deposited in the grocer's cash register 'til payday. Who says that today's gals can't take care of themselves, and do a swell job of it?

• • •

Graduates

IT SOON will be open season for sweet gal graduates, and we'll say they're sweet. There are those who remember that back in the pompadour age, this season would find them deep in the study of their "oration." And orators they were, in fact they were outsize orations with gestures thrown in for good measure. It must have been only relatives who attended the exercises for who else would have the fortitude to take such punishment as sitting through 10 or 11 "orations." But there are those still living who can testify that it was done. And we're thinking right now of a class picture—the gals pompadoured to the nth degree, bows at the back of their head, drop shouldered dresses and high shoes. Snazzy — well we thought so.

Four Types of Construction Exempt from Freezing Order Issued April 9

Government Action Allows Leeway for Repairs and Maintenance and Other Essential Work.

NEW YORK, April 18 — The Construction Conservation Order put into effect April 9 by the War Production Board, is an assurance to America's millions of farmers, to its home owners, store and factory owners that they can keep their buildings in good condition by performing needed repairs and maintenance construction.

The new order, coming after a period of rumors and uncertainty, was welcome news to the thousands of small builders, building material dealers and contractors, reports Joseph Mason, executive editor of the American Builder magazine.

"Preliminary publicity on the new order gave many people the false impression that the American building industry was silenced for the duration," Mason says. "Fortunately, this is not the case. The government realizes, as the building industry has long maintained, that deliberate neglect of homes and factories would, in effect, hamper our war effort by impairing the shelter and productive facilities of the nation.

Order Analyzed

"An analysis of Order L-41 reveals that it allows four major types of construction without permit or restriction anywhere in the country.

"1. It does not limit or restrict the cost or extent of repairs and maintenance needed to keep a home, farm, store, factory or other building 'in sound working condition,' or to restore it to working condition 'when such portion has been rendered unsafe or unfit for service by wear and tear, damage or other similar causes.' All such repairs and maintenance may be conducted without permits.

"2. It provides that new residential construction to the amount of $500 in any one year may be undertaken without permit. New agricultural construction to the amount of $1,000 is also permitted, while all other construction, including commercial, industrial, recreational, institutional, highway, roadway, subsurface and utilities construction, whether privately or publicly financed, is permitted as long as its cost does not exceed $5,000.

"3. It provides for reconstruction or restoration of residential construction damaged or destroyed after Dec. 31, 1941, by fire, flood, tornado, earthquake, act of God or the public enemy.

"4. The order permits and encourages with priority assistance the private construction of defense houses, and other structures, and the conversion and alteration of houses in defense areas.

Questions Answered

"These provisions answer the questions of the home owner who wants to repair his front porch, repaint his house, insulate or apply a new roof or fire-resistant shingles. He can undertake such repairs and maintenance without permit and in any amount, according to the order as issued. If he desires to build a garage or fix up his basement or attic, he may do that, too, provided it costs no more than $500.

"The farmer, wishing to build a new barn or milk cooler, may do so, provided their cost is no more than $1,000, for this is all he may so spend in any one year for any but repair and maintenance construction.

"Stores, shops and small commercial construction costing not more than $5,000 may also be undertaken without permit anywhere in the country.

"In addition, any person wishing to build any structure for an 'essential civilian need or important to the war effort' can apply for a permit to build such a structure to the Federal Housing Administration. A considerable amount of work may be carried on under these permits.

"Intended to direct as much material as possible to war use, the order yet makes generous and necessary allowance for needed civilian construction. It is the duty of the building industry now to see that every last ounce of material so employed shall help maintain and preserve our structures for the more efficient prosecution of the war."

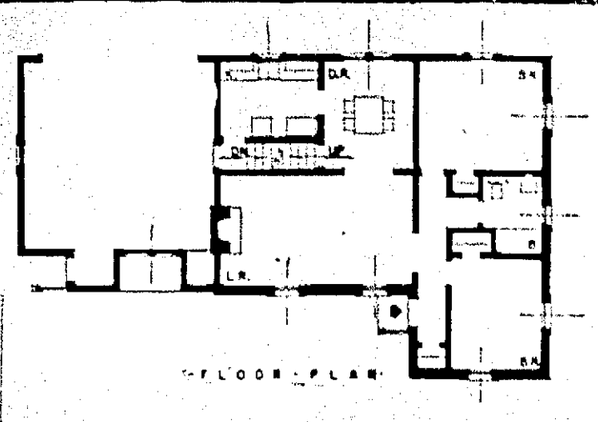
Modeled After New England Farmhouse

This house is traditional in its conception. On a larger scale it would resemble a New England farmhouse but here it is well adapted to a suburban setting. Although serving as a one-story house here this dwelling has an unfinished second floor which may be developed as the needs and means of the family grow. A two car attached garage gives the house added storage space and the appearance of added size.



THE GARDEN CLINIC

By VICTOR H. RIES
O. S. U. Extension Floriculturist.

Q. I have many crowded iris. Must I wait until the frost has killed the leaves, wait until just after blooming to divide them, or can they be divided now before they start new growth? Mrs. J. N., Troy.

A. If you divided and transplanted your iris now, you would lose most of this year's bloom. Leave them until after they have bloomed and then in July or August divide them and transplant them. In this case, you will get bloom next year.

• • •

Q. When do you transplant the hardy amaryllis (Lycoris squamigera)?

A. The so-called hardy amaryllis is sending up its leaves now. These will die down in a couple of months. Then late in July or early August flower stocks appear. These are usually about two feet high, with lavender-pink flowers. The bulbs may be dug and transplanted any time after they finish blooming, or in the case of not blooming, during August and September. My observation has been that they only bloom about every other year.

• • •

Q. What are the names of some good annual vines? B. D. R., Toledo.

A. Of course, everybody knows the Heavenly-Blue morning glory. The new white one, Pearly Gates, is said to be almost equally desirable. Then if you feel you must grow some vegetable, why not plant the scarlet runner beans. In addition to their gorgeous red flowers, you will find their beans are as good as any string beans you ever grew. Personally I am rather fond of the variety Darkness of the hyacinth bean. It has lavender flowers and purple seed pods. The moon vine, cypress vine and cardinal climber are all desirable.

• • •

Q. Would you please tell me where I may purchase the miscible oils that you recommended in a recent Garden Clinic for winter spraying for the control of various scale insects? F. C. McC., Coraopolis, Pa.

A. The different brands of miscible oil may be purchased from the various seed stores, hardware stores, or very often directly from the large oil companies selling gasoline.

• • •

Q. What can be done for the scale on a French pussywillow? F. G. W., Toledo.

A. Oyster shell scale is quite prevalent on pussywillows and borers sooner or later get them all, but probably the best treatment is to cut the pussywillows to the ground every two or three years, allowing them to send up new shoots from the base. This usually keeps ahead of both borers and scale. It is possible to control the scale by spraying during the winter with lime sulphate or a miscible oil. It is too late to do this now since the buds would be injured.

• • •

Q. What makes narcissus buds blast? H. B., Toledo.

A. The double varieties of narcissus, or if you prefer daffodils, dry up and shrivel before they open, more often than they bloom. I find in my own yard where they are planted in rather moist ground they seem to bloom better than in ordinary ground. Otherwise, there is nothing you can do to prevent this blasting of the buds.

• • •

Q. What substance can be used in place of peat moss for mulching?

A. You may use any form of organic material, rotted leaves, rotted manure, rotted straw, old sawdust, alfalfa chaff, clover chaff, buckwheat hulls, cotton husks, sugar cane refuse. These materials are not used for fertilizing but to prevent the loss of moisture by evaporation, to control weeds and to keep soil cool in summer because of their insulating value. During the winter, to the above list, you can add glass wool.

20 STATES LIST FHA WORK IN 1941

Total More Than $9,000,000 Under One Financing Plan.

Twenty states each reported more than $9,000,000 of new-home mortgages accepted for insurance during 1941 under section 203 of the National Housing Act, according to an announcement by Federal Housing Commissioner Abner H. Ferguson. These figures do not include new homes financed under Titles I or VI.

California again led by a wide margin with 31,677 mortgages amounting to $137,811,850, or 18 per cent of the total amount accepted during the year. Its net cumulative volume from 1935 through 1941 was 118,003 mortgages for $520,059,496—all on new homes located in the state.

Michigan came second both for the year and for the cumulative period. Last year's record was 15,488 mortgages for $60,034,600 accepted. For the seven years it was 53,389 mortgages for $257,805,000.

New York State was third in amount for 1941 with 9,982 mortgages accepted for $51,751,600, while Pennsylvania was third in number with 10,670 for $50,861,850. For the cumulative period New York held third place with 47,449 mortgages for $243,365,412.

Other states where mortgages accepted for FHA insurance in 1941 exceeded $9,000,000 were Illinois, New Jersey, Ohio, Texas, Indiana, Florida, Washington, Virginia, Maryland, Missouri, Oklahoma, Tennessee, Minnesota, Connecticut, Louisiana and Georgia.

In the nation as a whole, 160,651 mortgages on new homes were accepted for insurance under section 203 in the amount of $709,623,000. The net volume for 1935 through 1941 was 618,493 mortgages for $2,822,827,914.

England has a campaign against rent increases.

INCREASE SHOWN IN BUILDING ACTIVITY

16 Projects Totaling $6,495 Listed for Week.

Sixteen building permits for projects totaling an estimated $6,495 were issued in the week ending April 17, according to records in the office of Lew Shadaker, city clerk. In the preceding week, eight permits for projects totaling $1,715 were issued.

The largest permit went to Ed Walters for a $5,000 alteration to a building at 278 East Center street. The other permits were as follows:

To W. D. McAdow, addition to dwelling at 628 East George street, $150; N. E. Pratt, shed at 684 Hermon street, $20; Mrs. Carrie Wilson, two-room dwelling on Milburn avenue, $800; Russel Binau, outside stairway at 277 Patten street, $25; Joseph Herbst, garage at 803 Congress street, $100; Roy Stinchcliffe, addition to building at 787 North Main street, $200; J. M. Tharp, remodel back porch at 450 Cherry street, $100; Dr. J. L. Plymale, garage at 210 South Greenwood street, $150; Martin Beckel, shop at 532 Pearl street, $5; Hiram Huffman, garage work at 128 Plymouth street, $25; Frank Cox, garage at 204 Pennsylvania avenue, $200; Lewis Jones, addition to dwelling at 305 Superior street, $250; L. C. Biggs, coal shed at 273 Lincoln avenue, $30; Mrs. Dovie Crawmer, remodel dwelling at 260 Kensington place, $100; Mrs. Flora Hartle, remodel dwelling at 618 Evans street, $150.

FHA Aims To Aid Mortgage Market

The functions of the federal housing administration in stabilizing the home mortgage market were outlined recently by Administrator Abner H. Ferguson.

"It is important to keep in mind always the basic fact that the federal housing administration is an insuring agency which does not in any way compete with private enterprise and in particular with lending institutions which enjoy the benefits of dealing in insured mortgages," Mr. Ferguson said.

The purpose and functions laid down in the national housing act prevent it from being in any sense a competitor with private business, he explained.

Laval Is a Symptom

WHILE Germany's enemies ponder the grief Pierre Laval's rise to power at Vichy may cause them, they should spare a little time to think about the man, himself. He is a symptom. There are Lavals and Quislings in every country.

They are the politicians guided by nothing but opportunism. Theirs is the triumph of the thing they stand for in political organization. They are the hardened manipulators of the political game, the cynics who have only one motive—their own survival.

Corruption and intrigue are their elements. Politics is a game they play as callously as a professional killer commits murder. Their price may be high or low, but it represents only what they demand for servitude; they have no ethical reservations.

They are everything the man in the street means when he hisses, "Dirty politician." Their mission in life, even though performed unconsciously, has been to undermine the last best hope of man, his political ability to be governed without the sacrifice of his own dignity.

The streamlined Huns and Samurai who are trying to force a slave's collar on humanity have taken cynical advantage of the Lavals and Quislings. They have given every human being added reason to look critically at the opportunists in politics, wherever they may be.

There is uncomfortable similarity between what Pierre Laval has stood for in France and is willing to do for his country's enemy and the thing corrupt politicians in the United States have done and are equally capable of putting into effect if the sources of resistance disappeared.

Ace in the Hole

CURRENTLY, the drift of the highest opinion in Washington is away from forced savings, in the direction of voluntary purchases of War Bonds. It couldn't well be otherwise at this time. The treasury department already is far advanced with plans to increase voluntary purchases through a person-to-person canvass. The project would have been canceled automatically by the imminent probability of a forced savings arrangement.

It is well worth trying to raise the money the government needs by voluntary purchases of War Bonds. If by some chance, that were to fail, there still would be the possibility of trying a withholding tax, or forced savings, or some other device to divert earning power into federal channels. The possibility of failure will be controlled, in large part, by the government, itself.

If it uses its power to keep prices from soaring so the people who are expected to buy War Bonds have the wherewithal, the voluntary purchase plan can be made to work. If inflation wipes out the wherewithal, however, nothing the government can do will recover it for war financing.

Awaiting Delivery

MAYOR LaGUARDIA, blasting away at Civilian Defense Director Landis, his successor in that troubled office, etches a ghastly little picture for his countrymen. If there were to be a bombing raid the civilian defense equipment that the federal government never has furnished wouldn't put out any fires or bind up any bleeding victims.

New York's mayor rests his case, of course, on an assumption that should be challenged sharply but never has been: That Washington should be expected to provide civilian defense equipment. It is an assumption that grows naturally out of a policy of looking to Washington for everything, which New York City has been encouraged to do under LaGuardia.

In Ohio, meanwhile, certain local politicians, principally in Cleveland, are expecting Columbus to come through with what they need and don't get from Washington. This doesn't mean that many communities aren't going ahead realistically to furnish what they need. They will be the fortunate ones if something happens. A promise to deliver as soon as a bunch of remote bureaucrats go through the necessary gestures and clear the way for someone to begin to start to do something about whatever it is that's needed would seem awfully useless if the 1,000-pound bombs began to CRRUMP in half a dozen of the fair cities of the land some evening at sunset.

SYNTHETIC RUBBER VARIETIES.

So far twenty-nine varieties of synthetic rubber have been studied. Current synthetic production of general purpose rubber is equivalent to about 3 per cent of the crude rubber consumption; the output in 1942 should be at least 15 per cent of normal requirements. Factories arranged for and building are capable of producing at the rate of 40,000 tons of synthetic rubber by the end of 1942.—Chemical and Engineering News.

NONE IMMUNE.

The treasury department reports a shortage of nickels and pennies. After the income taxes are paid most of us are going to be short on coins of higher denominations.—Los Angeles Time.

News Behind the News

Hitler's Delays Getting Near Zero Hour in Libyan Campaign.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, April 18—The Nazi drive in Libya which threw out a breath terror into the British countries turned out to be a final thrust.

A few local advances were made, but there is some reason to believe no more than a regiment was involved in any of the skirmishes. No large amount of tanks took part on either side. Thus the expected great drive to Alexandria turned out to be a fizzle.

That raises the question what is Hitler waiting for? Sandstorms have already started in that area. He has only a few weeks left before the heat will keep his army prone.

If he is able to go at all, he should have been on his way long before this. He has been throwing everything he has handy in the way of bombing at Malta, and if he can obliterate that obstacle, he can push whatever supplies of men and material he has across the straits into General Rommel's inert right arm. But he and everybody else know the clock is running out there.

Excuses

There is more excuse for his failure to develop the long advertised spring offensive in Russia. Thaws have started in the north now. No one can move much around that front for a few weeks.

The weather has not been good in the south either, so he can blame his sluggishness on the weather there also.

But if he has anything he had better throw it soon, else he will confess by inactivity that our fondest hopes are correct.

Trip Delayed

There was some talk about General MacArthur coming back here for a meeting with the Pacific war council. It would have been a sensational visit, but they delayed it temporarily.

Tribute to Gen. Johnson

The newspaper in which General Johnson's column is published in Washington did not consider his death of sufficient interest to place it on the front page.

Thus passes quietly from the national debate, which is the essence of democracy, a voice which was sometimes shrill, sometimes too harsh for many people, but always forceful, picturesque, honest.

I guess that was what he was after. I did not know him except as a reader, but you get to think you know people rather intimately from their writings. Writers put themselves out on paper.

He did not try to make friends in his work. He just put his views out there every day, speaking his pieces as if to say:

"I don't want anyone to misunderstand me and to hell with you if you don't like it. This is what I think."

Great Technician

But this was not what made Johnson interesting and important to me. I thought he was a great technician. He was a swell writer—the best in the business. He had the imaginative turn of mind which grasped words and lined them up into phrases with barbs on them. He got into you.

And when you look into him that way, you will find a great spirit, out of which he always spoke. It was the spirit of a soldier, a tough-talking guy who told it with the pointedness of a top sergeant.

Because his style made so many enemies and inspired passive resistance, I don't think the literal greatness that was in him was ever appreciated.

He was a poor administrator, an impractical executive, a blundering politico, a belligerent and gallant spirit and a truly great writer. I don't care what he stood for. He stood there, openly, challengingly.

I tip my hand against my forehead to the general who said what he had to say better than anyone else I know. Let those writers who have neglected to mourn his passing say their pieces have as well.

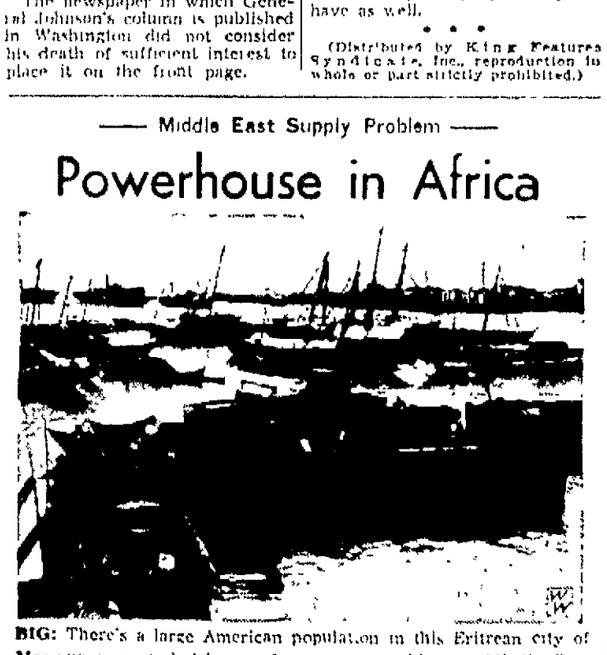
Middle East Supply Problem

Powerhouse in Africa



BIG: There's a large American population in this Eritrean city of Massaua now—technicians and engineers working on Middle East supply problems. Eritrea was wrested from the Italians by the British during the African campaign.

IMPORTANT: Cairo, in the land of the Pharohs, takes on greater importance as the distribution point for American supplies jamming into the Middle East. Many cargoes are taken by airplane to Cairo from the African west coast.

[Last of a series of three articles dealing with the Middle East, vital spot in the latest war situation.]

By CLAYTON J. IRWIN
Wide World Writer

A LAND, sea and air bridge equivalent to half the distance around the world is pouring millions of tons of war materials into the strategic Middle East for the United Nations' impending battle against the Axis.

America's contribution to the effort started shortly after President Roosevelt, on Dec. 27, 1940, told the nation that it must become "the great arsenal of democracy."

It has roared along in force since a few days after Pearl Harbor, when authorities permitted the disclosure that American engineers and skilled craftsmen are busy in Eritrea, British-held Italian colony stretching 670 miles along the Red Sea on the route to Suez.

Problems Increase

In other remote parts of Africa, in Egypt, and even in Palestine, American technicians are at work for battle of supply gains strength despite the elements of distance and danger, multiplied since the United States entered the war.

Airplanes have sliced weeks and months off the time required for shipment of vital materials to the war areas. But for the transport of heavy machinery and equipment, cargo vessels continue in a stream through the Atlantic, and truck trains rumble day and night across the expanses of African desert.

Britain's loss of control of the Mediterranean — excepting the eastern end and the area flanking British-held Libya and Suez—put the main problem of Middle East supply up to the United States. While emergency convoys, heavily protected by the British fleet, are able to move in a restricted area of the Mediterranean, British now must depend mainly on the 'round-Africa route, 11,600 miles from London to Suez.

The problem is one of ships, planes, trucks, men—and implements of war from American farms, shops and factories.

Foremost among the routes is the air line from east coast ports to Brazil, thence to the African west coast. Here, blazing a new sky trail, big American planes loaded with vital machinery parts cover in days the distance for which the fastest cargo ships

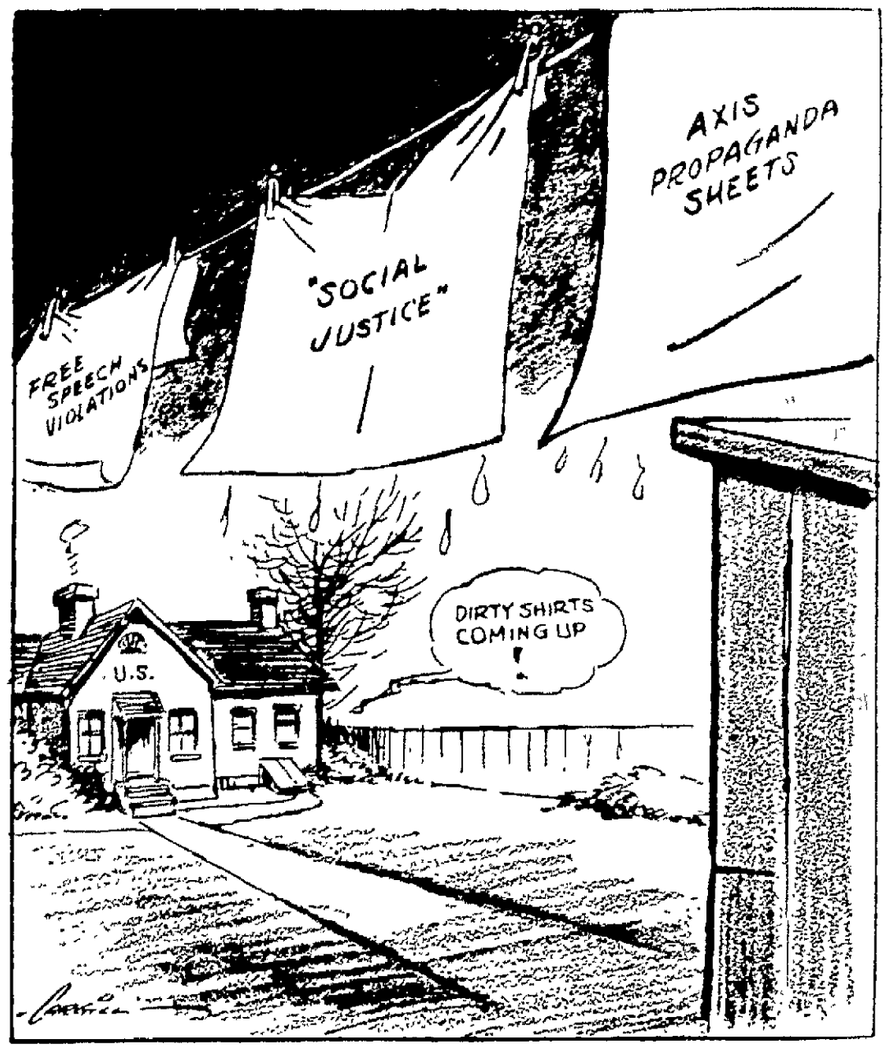
A SPRING CLEANING LONG OVERDUE



From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO.

It was Monday, April 18, 1932.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Ellenwood of Ballentine avenue.

Mrs. Maude May Clayton, 54, died at her home on Patterson street.

Arrangements were being made for Marion's participation in the observance of National Music Week opening May 1. Mrs. R. O. Bresler, music chairman of the Marion County Federation of Women's clubs was to be in charge of a series of programs. Named for prominent roles were Mrs. Eugene H. Moore of Marion, Miss Charlet Cellars of Delaware and William Moore Wells of Columbus. In arrangements for a cantata, "The Sage of Mt. Vernon" T. R. Evans was announced as director, Miss Grace Kline as accompanist and Truitt Brown as tenor soloist.

Thomas O. Showers, Marion navy recruiting officer, was to be transferred from Marion in May, it was officially announced. He had been here three years.

Rev. Clarence S. Gee of Delaware was elected moderator of the opening session Marion Presbytery in its annual meeting at First Presbyterian church.

The Marion Sorosis club closed its season with a potluck dinner and election of officers at the home of Mrs. Troy McClure on Cherry street. Mrs. Elmer Flach was the new president.

TWENTY YEARS AGO.

It was Tuesday, April 18, 1922.

Brig. Gen. J. H. McRae, assistant chief of staff, appearing before the senate army appropriations committee, said that an absolute minimum of 13,000 officers was needed for the army whether the enlisted strength was fixed at 115,000 or 150,000. Going below the 13,000 would "scrap the national defense plan," he said.

A Washington dispatch reported that Woodrow Wilson, although sick and broken down in bodily vigor, had not retired from politics and had no intention of doing so. As an indication of this reference was made to a letter from the former president to a St. Louis newspaper in which he scathingly took to task Sen. James A. Reed, (D), of Missouri, who was coming up for reelection. Senator Reed had been an implacable opponent of this country's entrance into the League of Nations.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. O. B. McElhaney of South Prospect street.

A group of Marion women accompanied by Mrs. Sarah Gackenbach, mother of John C. Gackenbach, who was awaiting execution at the Ohio penitentiary for the muder of Joseph Charles Boone of Marion, failed to see Gov. Harry L. Davis when they went to Columbus to request commutation of Gackenbach's sentence to life imprisonment. However they conferred informally with Attorney William S. Bundy, the governor's executive clerk, who advised them to circulate a petition in Marion to obtain signatures of representative citizens sufficient to indicate the sentiment of the community relative to the proposed commutation.

Loy E. Cookston was named assistant postmaster to succeed Henry S. Kraner, effective May 1. Mr. Cookston had been employed in the local office since 1905 and his most recent position was that of foreman. John B. Kerr, city distributor, was promoted to succeed Mr. Cookston as foreman. Announcement of the promotions was made by Postmaster French Crow.

Today and Tomorrow

Developments in France Expected To Center Allies' Theater of War in Western Europe.

By WALTER LIPPMANN

BY IMPOSING Laval on the French people, Hitler has brought France back into the war. France was sure to come back into the war. For it has never been possible that France, defeated in a great battle but by no means conquered, could remain permanently on the sidelines while the fate of France and of Europe and of the world was being decided.

Hitler knows this, and in taking the drastic step of overthrowing the Petain regime, he has followed the well-tried pattern of the Axis, which is to strike the first blow. In this case, seeing that French affairs were moving rapidly to a crisis, Hitler has as usual taken the bold course. He has seized control of the French government by using Laval, a man who is absolutely at his mercy because Laval's very life depends not only upon a Nazi victory but upon the continued Nazi occupation of France.

Hitler's move is a bold one, and we may feel sure that Hitler knows the risks of using Laval. It cannot have been a simple decision to take. Otherwise it would have been taken long ago. If using Laval were an unmixed advantage, Hitler would never have let Marshal Petain oust Laval at a time when the Nazis were at the peak of their power in the late autumn of 1940.

There is, as Hitler well knows, the gravest kind of disadvantage to him in using Laval. It is that with Laval in power, French patriots can no longer be divided between those who look upon Marshal Petain and those who look upon General De Gaulle as the symbol of French salvation. Honest and loyal Frenchmen could differ deeply about the marshal and the general. But Laval is so obviously a German agent and also so obviously the incarnation of the worst elements of the Third Republic that, in the presence of Laval, there exists once more the possibility of French national unity. The risk that Hitler has taken is, therefore, serious. At the moment when the British, reinforced by the growing power of America, are knocking at the gates of France, Hitler has had to set up a French government which must cause all that is best in France to lay plans how they can most successfully resist and rebel.

Takes a Risk

Hitler had, however, to take this risk. For the spirit of French resistance has been rising anyway in answer to the growing likelihood of British-American intervention. Laval, though he controls the police, the propaganda and the armed forces, will not persuade the French people to join the Axis. But Laval is the means by which French resistance can perhaps be suppressed and France divided within herself once more by military actions which entangle French soldiers and sailors in battles with the English-speaking peoples. If, as many surmise, Laval's plan is to attack the Free French in Syria and in Africa, it may be possible for Laval to quell French resistance to Hitler by forcing the British and the Americans to shed French blood.

A scheme of this kind, designed to destroy the French national spirit, is quite characteristic of Hitler's devilish cunning and quite consistent with the evil genius of Laval.

The answer to it is undoubtedly to give convincing evidence to the French people that the United Nations have made up their minds to concentrate their main forces during this year for the struggle against Hitler. The degree of French national resistance will be, we may be certain, a direct reflection of the power which Britain, America and Russia can concentrate in Europe against the German Army—that is, against the power which dominates France. French action will respond, more or less proportionately, to the action of the United

Blackouts

Almost Anything Can Happen in Los Angeles If They Pull Switch at Wrong Time.

By DAMON RUNYON

LOS ANGELES, April 18—A friend of mine was telling me of a gruesome experience he had during a blackout here the other night.

It seems he went to the home of a Beverly Hills young lady for dinner on blackout night. A scrumptious repast was served. There were wine with every course. My friend is a light wine man and alcoholic beverages have a pronounced effect on him.

Presently he was slightly potted, and he beheld not the young lady took on an air of bewildering loveliness, though in truth, as a fact most authorities declare her no more beautiful than a spot owl. Be that as it may, my friend told her he loved her and proposed marriage to her. The lady declined. She said:

My friend took his hat and prepared to depart, his dignity and his vanity both considerably affronted, though in the interim between his acquisition of his hat and his movement toward the door his clouded vision cleared sufficiently for him to see her more distinctly and to realize that he had just been the beneficiary of a stroke of rare good fortune.

HIS hand was on the doorknob when the lights went out. The lights in the street were extinguished. He could not drive his car in the darkness, so he removed his hat again and sat down and tried to develop a little light conversation on general topics with the young lady. Suddenly she said: "I have reconsidered my offer of marriage. On second thought I say: Let us now discuss the time and place for the wedding of the sacred bonds. And by the way, I am bitterly opposed to long engagements."

My friend, being a high class gentleman, felt that he is obligated by every tenet of the code of honor to go through with the ceremony. He will make him one with the young lady, although he does not believe that his love for her is of that consuming nature that makes for happy marriage.

He would not hurt the young lady's feelings for the world, and besides he remembers that she once sued another guy for breach of promise and got judgment. But he is now unalterably opposed to blackouts. In fact, he is hoping to arrange his affairs so he will not have to leave his room after nightfall until the war is over.

HOWEVER, do not consider this fellow's blackout mishap any worse than that of another friend who was driving his wife to their home in Santa Monica from the Biltmore hotel in downtown Los Angeles and who was caught by the blackout a long distance removed from their domicile just as they concluded a quarrel by not speaking to each other.

Under the blackout rules he had to pull over at a curb and wait there until the all-clear was reported. It was a long blackout and the time he wait was in deep silence because naturally he was not going to speak to her first and of course she was not going to speak to him first, either. You know how those things are. To make things worse, their car was a coupe. The blackout lasted about two hours and my friend tells me he suffered keenly.

BEST place to be in Los Angeles blackout is home in bed. The worst place is in a restaurant surrounded by bores from whom you have been hoping to escape the moment you can think of a plausible excuse. A blackout does not abate conversation. On the other hand, it tends to increase it because there is nothing else to do.

Personally, I thing there should be a law that the period of outer gloom must be devoted to meditation by one and all—meditation on the good fortune that no bombs are falling and on the fact that whatever the inconveniences of the darkness, it is so far not a millionth part of the trials of peoples elsewhere in this world.

Company's History

A brief history of the Hunkin-Conkey Construction Co. is given as follows:

Back three score and ten years ago Sam Hunkin started to build ...that has now grown into the Hunkin-Conkey Construction Co. As project work increased, he took his younger brother, William A. Hunkin, into the company, as a more or less silent partner. Under his brother's tutelage William ...mastered the construction business and became a full-fledged partner.

"After Samuel Hunkin's death his nephew, G. E. Conkey, became a part of the company as vice president and secretary. In 1907-08 the name was changed to its present status.

"As an aftermath of their previous work, the organization constructed many of the larger plants of that time in all parts of the country. Harbors, docks, bridges, ball parks, steel mills, blast furnaces, and other large jobs are just a few of their accomplishments down through the years of 1907 to 1917.

"In 1917 C. A. Lohmiller and J. L. Erwin joined the firm. From the years of 1917 and up till the death of W. J. Hunkin in 1931, a new type of construction work was employed. Churches, schools, colleges, banks, hotels, were included in a change of specialties.

"During the so-called depression, the company took on bigger projects such as dams, tunnels, housing projects. They built the second largest dam in the world, namely, Shasta Dam in northern California.

Forseeing the conditions of the world of today, the U. S. government began the construction of ordnance plants. Having no previous experience, but a good reputation, Hunkin-Conkey was given the opportunity to build the Ravenna Ordnance plant at Ravenna, Ohio and their work was of such a high caliber that they were awarded the contract to build the Scioto Ordnance plant, Marion, Ohio.

The firm's members are as follows: G. E. Conkey, president; S. E. Hunkin, vice-president and treasurer; C. A. Lohmiller, vice-president; G. E. Conkey Jr., general superintendent; J. L. Erwin, secretary and H. F. Hadde, civil engineer."

Firm Head Visits Here

The paper tells of a visit to Marion last week of John A. Holabird, head of the architect-engineering firm of Hollabird & Root, to inspect the project.

It states that the Likens Chapel and the Clark school are among the buildings selected to remain permanently on the site.

Lumber now on the way to the plant will be stored in a lumber yard to be set up there and will be allotted to the work as needed.

Club Has Farewell Meeting At School on War Plant Site

By BOB BYRD

A community organization of some 100 members quietly passed out of the Marion county scene last night when the Clark school community club, its headquarters taken by the federal government's Scioto Ordnance Plant, held its farewell meeting.

Two weeks ago there might have been tears at such a meeting at lamenting over the breaking of friendships developed through several generations, for the community is one in which the farms have come down from father to son, with comparatively few families moving in or out. But last night there wasn't anything of the kind. All the families are now busy with plans to move to new homes. Their course has been decided and they've quietly resigned themselves to the job of moving.

The farewell meeting consisted of a business session, the showing of movies and a social and supper hour at the close. The more than 100 persons present were jammed in the one-room Clark school that served as their meeting place, but the attendance wasn't much above the usual turnout.

Dine and Visit

The club members like to visit, so in the place of speeches they allowed a generous part of the evening to the consuming of a full-fledged potluck supper starting about 10:15. They visited while they ate, and the school room buzzed with conversation while families bade each other a fond and told each other where they planned to live and when they intended to move.

Each family's experience would make an interesting story. For example, take the case of Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Mahaffey. They were married 53 years ago and settled down on a farm where Mr. Mahaffey had spent part of his boyhood. Mr. Mahaffey will be 80 years old next fall. "That's been home for a long time and I've decided to die there, but the ...ment calculated different," ...with a grin. "We're moving on the Bucyrus pike a ...piece north of Hamiltons— ...I can die there just as ... He and Mrs. Mahaffey met ...classmates at the former Linn ...Incidentally, Mr. Mahaffey ...some unusual memories about ...rk school. "Some of us ...own a board fence, made a ...platform out of it and ...od time and they kicked ...r it," "but let's don't say ...about that."

Another Interested Family

...ther case that furnishes an ...how much the community ...e school and the friend- ...hub there mean to some ...involves several members ...Hinamon family.

...ent last night was Mrs. G. ...amon of 244 East Church ...a former pupil and former ...at the school. She taught ...about 60 years ago. Her ...daughter, Mrs. O. C. Young, ...a former pupil there and her ...grandson, Gene Young, 10, ...in the fifth grade. The ...has been in close touch ...the school for more than half ...a century.

Many years ago there used to ...a literary club at the school. It was replaced by a social group ...to the present club, but that organization died. It was revived in about 1925 and has been continuously active since, serving as the community's equivalent of a combined Parent-Teacher association, Chamber of Commerce and social club. It hasn't made a point of backing any particular projects but has provided such things as a radio for the school, trees at Christmas time and purchased a set of cups for the social activities centered around the school. At the close of last night's meeting each family took one of the cups home as a memento.

Reid Epley is president of the club, Mrs. O. C. Young is vice president and pianist, Miss Evelyn Showers is secretary, W. C. Showers is treasurer and O. C. Young is a board member. Some of the former presidents include Taber Adams, Mrs. Taber Adams, Paul Miller, O. C. Young and William Gulliford.

During the business meeting the club voted to send a radio to Marshall Burnett, former teacher now in military service.

Painters at Work on Bank Building

A crew of painters was busy today giving the exterior of the National City Bank building a coat of white paint. E. Paul Bachman said the painting was both for purposes of redecoration and preservation.

He said the wainscoating will be painted a darker color later. The move, he said, is the result of about two years' experimenting with various methods of cleaning and redecorating the stone surface. He said sandblasting had proved to be too hard on the soft stone.

The painting is being done only to the front and side of the building half-way up.

Cities' Defense Needs Surveyed by Bricker

Mayor Snare said today that a request had been received from Governor Bricker for a survey to determine what funds and equipment are needed to combat any enemy activity in Marion.

The governor said today that some replies were already in, The Associated Press reported. The information is wanted to provide a complete, detailed picture of preparedness or lack of it in the home front war effort.

There were indications that communities absolutely without funds to buy needed equipment would be aided by allocations from the state emergency board.

U. S. Planes Bomb 4 Japanese Cities

by long-range bombers and carrier-based craft.

A German radio broadcast said that "according to an unconfirmed report in Tokyo an American aircraft carrier was sunk off the east coast of Japan today."

This was the only axis report to hint at the possible origin of the raiders. Axis reports frequently give exaggerated or erroneous accounts of Japanese claims, however, in search for information.

Possible Bases

Conceivably, the raiders could have struck from the China mainland, from Vladivostok in Russian Siberia across the narrow sea of Japan, or even from the Aleutian islands of Alaska. These has been no indication, however, that Russia has become involved with her old enemy.

Japanese central defense headquarters said two of the attacking planes bombed Nagoya and that a single raider sprinkled incendiaries over Kobe. It said "no serious damage was caused."

Flames broke out in the wake of the planes. The Japanese said incendiaries were dropped at six places in the vicinity of Nagoya and at three places in Kobe, but declared the fires were brought under control.

"The enemy strafed farming villages in the Wakayama and Yokkaichi Stiga prefectures with machine-guns, but no damage was caused," central defense headquarters asserted.

Japanese broadcasts said the raiders avoided the heart of Tokyo, dropping their bombs on the outskirts of the sprawling, flimsily-constructed city. Many of Tokyo's big war industries are on the outskirts.

The Berlain radio said fire of unannounced origin destroyed more than 400 buildings and inflicted severe casualties in Oguni, in northern Japan, but it was not known whether the fire had any connection with the raids.

In Tokyo, a Japanese radio announcer admitted only damage to "grammar schools, hospitals and cultural establishments," and he declared:

Japs Are Indignant

"Mounting indignation is being felt among the people."

A Tokyo dispatch to DNB, the German news agency, said the capital's air-raid warning lasted seven hours.

"Metropolitan Tokyo experienced its first taste of enemy invasion shortly past noon Saturday when a small unit of unidentified planes appeared shortly following the alert warning," the Tokyo radio said.

"They batted about, releasing a few bombs on the outskirts of the city.

"Japanese interceptor planes immediately took chase. The hostile planes were sent winging at high speed, but were made easy prey for the Japanese pursuit planes."

The announcer said Tokyo's anti-aircraft batteries put up a heavy barrage and that "our losses were extremely light."

Domei, Japanese news agency, gave a curious version of Japanese behavior under the nation's first aerial attack, asserting that 'in the downtown districts of the Ginza and Narunounchi, business flowed on as usual with buses, street cars and other vehicles running without interruption.

"Children peered into the sky for hostile aircraft.

"While the Japanese air defense smashed down the invaders, lunch hour crowds unhurriedly finished their meals and returned to their offices satisfied that defense workers were doing their jobs well."

Precautions Unexplained

The account failed to explain why ordinary alert precautions—such as halting of traffic and movement of civilians to cover—were not taken, in view of Japan's vaunted program of drills.

The long reaches of Honshu, Japan's major island; Shikoku, which nestles in the lower arm of Honshu; and Hokkaido, to the north were under alerts or the bombflights of the raiders the hours, Japanese announcers disclosed.

Five, members and were lost in the raid.

ABOUT ANYTHING

In and Around Marion

Just To Be Helpful

A FRIEND of ours calls our attention to a recent Gallup poll revealing that only about 50 per cent of the American people know the names of their congressman. Our friend could scarcely believe that such lack of knowledge existed and he was particularly doubtful that the condition applied to Marion. To make sure, he set out to make a test among his acquaintances, virtually all of them folks who might reasonably be regarded as well-informed. He found the Gallup percentage prevailed here, so he tells us, especially when it came to naming the United States senators from Ohio. Needless to say, there are not many residents of Marion or of the Eighth district who don't know that our own fellow townsman and former mayor, Dr. Frederick C. Smith, is the district's representative in congress.

But when it comes to naming the senators, a great many persons are stumped, according to our informant, and he thinks we should do something about it. His suggestion is that we publish the senators' names so everybody who wants to register complaints or make suggestions about the way things are going in Washington will know to whom their letters should be addressed.

It seems that there's plenty to write letters about these days and it's important that they should go to the right parties. And we're glad to help along the best we can.

Ohio's senators are Robert A. Taft of Cincinnati and Harold H. Burton of Cleveland. But when writing, address them at the Senate Office Building, Washington, D. C.

Musical Noise

DO YOU ever have that tantalizing and ordinarily unhappy experience of playing catch as catch can with Morpheus for a few hours after going to bed at night? We hope not, but the chances are that you do unless you are in the heyday of youth and free of cares and worries.

At any rate, the job of wooing slumber these nights may be a lot more difficult than it was up to a couple of years ago, especially if your bunk is located in a neighborhood where noise of the railroads is in hearing distance. That is, if you don't appreciate the music that's in the noise.

There was a time when virtual silence prevailed in nearly all sections of Marion during the late night hours. Only an occasional rumble of trains and blasts of locomotive whistles broke into the tranquility. That was in the depression era, when there was little cause for railroad trains to be running, since railroad companies don't make a habit of dragging empty cars back and forth across the country.

But listen now about midnight or thereafter if you have occasion to go through an insomnious hour or two. Possibly counting trains may be more effective than the time-tried sheep system. It will if you realize just what these trains are carrying. You'll find there's virtually no let-up to the passing railroad caravans and the accompanying music of bells and whistles. Yes, it's music, the most popular of these times. It is set to the tune of thriving industry and above all, of production that will bring victory to the armies of democracy. For virtually all the trains are loaded with supplies, provisions and munitions required for success in the nation's one great undertaking. So with that thought in mind, start counting and sleep flavored with dreams of fleeing Japs and Nazis will be yours.

published a four-page eulogy of the new premier, picturing him as a heroic figure and asserting that if the nation's leaders had listened to him in the winter of 1940, at a secret session of the senate foreign affairs committee, they "would have saved France from defeat and invasion."

Check on Laval

While the United States officially catalogued the Laval government as a puppet of Germany and U. S. Ambassador William D. Leahy prepared to return home "for consultations," reliable sources saw the possibility that Laval might be held in leash by the bitter personal fued between him and Admiral Jean Darlan.

Under the new regime, Darlan is not only heir-designate to Marshal Petain as chief of state but also commander of France's land, sea and air forces.

Informed quarters in Vichy said Laval was having difficulty in filling several posts of his new cabinet, citing a Vichy radio report that announcement of the ministerial list would be delayed again until later in the day.

American Promise To Bomb Japan No Idle Threat

By DEWITT MacKENZIE
Wide World War Analyst

Bombs over Japan—a flaming promise of a better world, free of barbaric aggression.

Judging from Tokyo's own accounts, this visitation of long-armed justice upon the assassins of Pearl Harbor was no flash in the pan but a thoroughly organized affair. That adds to its importance, as signalling that the allies are beginning to hit their stride.

This historic raid—which the Japs at first attributed to unidentified planes but later credited to American bombers—appears to have been carried out on a large scale. Warplanes swooped down on the mikado's domains from several directions to strike at numerous cities, including the capital itself, and thus give the Nipponese their first experience of this nerve-shattering type of warfare.

The indignation expressed by the high-minded Japanese over what they characterize as indiscriminate bombing needn't cause the American public any uneasiness. Tokyo and the other cities bombed are filled with military objectives.

This is no time to be soft-hearted, when our country and homes are at stake. Just remember Pearl Harbor and Bataan, and the rapings and murders of Hong Kong and Nanking, and let the Japs go chatter their indignation into the ears of their pagan gods.

This is a grand day for allied arms, because the blow has been struck at a moment when it can do a vast amount of good to morale in the United Nations and much damage to the axis powers. It gives further evidence that we are assuming the initiative—a matter of vital moment—and it demonstrates that we can get at the enemy despite his isolation and defenses.

This raid and General MacArthur's blow in the Philippines, gives us an exhibition of the strategy upon which we are likely to depend to crush the Japanese—war from the air.

The effect in Europe is likely to be profound. Look where you will, and this feat will be working for the allies. It is calculated to stiffen Turkey's back as Hitler tries to bully that strategic nation into allowing him passage into the Middle East. It will bring hope to countries like Yugoslavia where the gallant people are battling against extermination of their race. It will encourage Greece, where the axis forces are imposing mass starvation in order to feed their own bellies. And so the good will spread.

There is just one thing more which certainly must be mentioned in connection with this demonstration of rapidly growing strength. That is the statement by WPB Chairman Donald Nelson that the United States has "passed the turning point" in war production and that the output of the United Nations now exceeds that of the axis.

What more could we ask for a good week-end?

U. S. PLANES FIGHT ON MANY FRONTS

By The Associated Press

American bombers lashed at the axis on far-flung battlefronts today, and military observers estimated that the allies were throwing nearly 3,000 first line warplanes against the enemy every 24 hours.

Informed sources declared the vast new aerial offensive was beginning to wrest the initiative in sector after sector on all war fronts.

With American assembly lines rolling off an endless stream of fighters and bombers, these were today's proofs of their punching power.

1. Planes identified as American bombed Tokyo and other Japanese cities for the first time in history.

2. U. S. army bombers operating from bases in India pounded Japanese-occupied Rangoon, Burma, a key springboard for enemy naval operations in the Bay of Bengal and for the land drive in Burma.

3. American-built Boston (Douglas) planes joined in the RAF's non-stop offensive against the German-occupied French "invasion coast."

4. Allied warplanes, presumably including United States aircraft, again blasted Japanese-held Koepang, in Dutch Timor, where the Japanese have been massing for attacks on Australia.

New Andy Hardy Picture On Screen at Palace

Mickey Rooney Comedy To Be Followed by "Fly by Night" and "The Vanishing Virginian."

Three outstanding films and Russ Morgan and his nationally famous orchestra are on the Palace bill for the week.

Mickey Rooney's new comedy, "The Courtship of Andy Hardy," is now showing and will be followed on Wednesday by 'Sullivan's Travels," starring Joel McCrea and Veronica Lake.

Morgan and his orchestra will take over the stage on Thursday.

Andy's New Friend

Donna Reed plays Andy's new romance. The story concerns Judge Hardy's attempt to smooth out her life when her separated parents bring their squabbles to his court. In his pity for the girl he enlists the aid of Andy and Andy rises to the challenge with astonishing results. All of the Hardy family are in the picture, Lewis Stone, Fay Holden, Cecilia Parker and Sara Haden.

"Sullivan's Travels" is another of Preston Sturges' one-man pictures. The "travels" are those of McCrea, a wealthy motion picture director, who junkets as a hobo in order to see how the down-and-outers live.

Nancy Kelly and Richard Carlson are featured in "Fly By Night," the picture booked for the one-day engagement of Russ Morgan and his orchestra.

"Vanishing Virginian"

"The Vanishing Virginian" was made from the book by Rebecca Yancey Williams, daughter of Capt. Bob Yancey of Lynchburg, Va., who was a composite of all great patriots and good citizens who make up the country but never reach the high places in the sense of fame and wealth beyond their little sphere.

Frank Morgan plays the captain who was elected state's attorney for the city of Lynchburg seven times. Spring Byington plays his wife. Nat the Thompson, Elizabet Patterson, Scotty Beckett, Douglass Nevland and Kathryn Grayson are in the cast. The film was directed by Frank Borzage.

ONLY FOUR SENATE DISTRICTS CHANGED

New Reapportionment Based on Court Order.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 18 — Only four of the present state senatorial districts would have any change in representation during the current ten years under a reapportionment plan suggested yesterday in accordance with a recent supreme court decision prohibiting any district boundary alterations.

The suggested changes:

Third district composed of Montgomery and Preble counties, would be given eight senators for the five legislative sessions, two in the first, second and third sessions and one in the fourth and fifth.

Twenty-third district, composed of Mahoning and Trumbull counties which has had two senators in each of the five periods would have two in the first four periods and one in the last.

Twenty-fifth district, composed of Cuyahoga county, would have six senators in each of the five periods.

Thirty-fourth district composed of Lucas county which had two senators in each of the five periods during the last decennium would have two in the first, second and third periods and one in the fourth and fifth.

The apportionment as prepared by Emory Glander, executive secretary to the governor and representatives of the attorney general's office and chairman of the board of elections, Secretary of State John L. Bricker and Secretary of State John L. Bricker and Secretary of State John L. Bricker, at a meeting of the apportionment board.

Because of the absence of State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson, formal action was deferred until Monday.

Young Actor in Ohio Film

McDowell Starred in "On the Sunny Side," To Be on Double Bill.

McDowall, the young actor who won his way [illegible] American film-goers' hearts in "How Green Was My Valley," "Lassie Come Home" and "Confirm or Deny," has his first starring role in "On the Sunny Side," which is now being shown at the Ohio theater Monday on a double bill with "The Perfect Snob."

Jane Darwell, Stanley Clements, Katherine Alexander, Freddie Mercer and Jill Esmond are featured in Darwell's film. It's the story of a London lad, bombed out by the blitz, who comes to America for duration. His life in America is altogether a happy one, though it soon creates complications in the home of a typical American family. In real life the boy has lived part of the picture. He was in motion pictures in England until the bombing of London, when he and his mother and sister sought refuge in this country.

Charlie Ruggles, Charlotte Greenwood, Lynn Bari and Cornel Wilde play the featured roles in "The Perfect Snob," built around Miss Greenwood's endeavors to marry off her daughter to a millionaire.

A Charlie Chan mystery thriller, "Castle in the Desert," set in a medieval castle on the Mojave desert, and "Right to the Heart," a comedy, are shown Tuesday through Thursday. The latter story deals with a society playboy who turns to the primary art of self-defense" as a last resort to finding himself.

The motion picture version of "Kings Row," a best-seller novel, begins a week's stay next Friday. It is the story of young people struggling to find their happiness against the opposition of circumstance and misunderstanding in a humdrum small city in the American midlands.

Ann Sheridan, Robert Cummings, Ronald Reagan and Betty Field are starred.

Nations. The French will acquiesce in Laval if we acquiesce. They will resist only passively if the Allies fight only defensively. They will come forward to meet us as we go forward to meet them. They will take the risks which are somehow commensurate with the risks we take.

Concentration Urged

What the risks are that we should take is not a matter that the general public, which includes newspaper writers of course, should presume to decide. But what stands to reason generally is that a grand political decision must be taken to concentrate rather than to disperse, to combine rather than to divide, the maximum force of the United Nations at the point where the most can be won and the most can be lost. After the decision to concentrate and to combine has been taken, then it is for the military leaders to judge what operations are the best in the circumstances.

There may be several ways to conduct the total war. But one thing is beyond dispute. The decision must be taken to fight it in one way rather than in several different ways at once. To do a little but not nearly enough everywhere is the sure way to lose everything gradually but inevitably. It does not matter how strong a nation is, it cannot be in full strength everywhere.

Adherence to this elementary principle is one of the fundamental causes of Hitler's success and of Japan's. Not merely have they taken the offensive where they had the most to gain but they have had the sense to stand on the defensive elsewhere. Hitler has opened one front at a time, never more than one. Russia has consistently adhered to the idea of war on one front. So has Japan—by remaining passive in China, in by-passing Australia and at least, while she was fully engaged in the Pacific, in not challenging Russia.

The developments in France leave us no choice other than to decide that the main immediate theater of the war for us is the peninsula of western Europe, of which France is the center, as it thrusts itself out into the narrow Atlantic.

POWERHOUSE

At the other extreme is the long, all-water route from the east coast through the Atlantic around the Cape of Good Hope and then up the African east coast to the Red Sea. It's about 14,000 miles, and an average vessel can make no more than three round trips a year.

Combining land, air and sea is the route from the U. S. east coast to British and Free French ports on the African west coast. Cargoes may be landed at the ports after a 4,500-mile water trip, trucked 3,600 miles via Free French military roads to Khartoum, and then moved by air, overland or by water to Cairo and other distribution points.

Danger, real and potential, lies along almost every mile of the supply routes.

Ships face the attack of submarines and surface vessels. These attacks would gain in intensity if the Axis gained control of the Vichy France island of Madagascar off east Africa, or if Japan pushed more strongly into the Indian ocean on the route to the Red sea.

Overland truck trains may be bombed: Fort Lamy, in French Equatorial Africa, already has been attacked from the air.

Along these far-flung supply lines, carrying the components for victory, may yet come some of the bitterest fighting of the war.

Canova Film At Marion

"Sleepytime Gal" To Be on Twin Bill with "Alias Boston Blackie" 2 Days.

Judy Canova, billed as "the world's greatest comedienne," is starred in "Sleepytime Gal," which will be at the Marion Sunday and Monday on a bill with a return showing of Chester Morris' "Alias Boston Blackie." There will be a midnight preview tonight.

Tom Brown, Billy Gilbert, Ruth Terry, and Skinnay Ennis and his band are in the Canova film, in which the star portrays a wistful, comical kitchen slavey who progresses to the heights of radio fame.

Shirley Temple's first picture since she emerged from retirement, "Kathleen," will be shown Tuesday and Wednesday on a double bill with "The Feminine Touch." Herbert Marshall and Laraine Day play the principal supporting roles in the Temple film, the story of a poor little rich girl. "The Feminine Touch," stars Rosalind Russell and Don Ameche.

"Shut My Big Mouth" starring Joe E. Brown, will be on the Thursday-Saturday program. Joe appears as a timid tenderfoot in the wild and woolly west, suddenly appointed marshal of a frontier town named Big Bluff. His sole assignment is to capture Buckskin Bill, a marshal-hating renegade. The other film will be a Roy Rogers action drama, "The Man from Cheyenne."

Secret Orders

BY ELEANOR ATTERBURY

CHAPTER NINE
Accident

IN SPITE of pride that kept her chin up, her smile smiling, Stephanie's eyes followed Kurt, her pulses like some faithful barometer, reported his movements through the crowded room. And though she stood talking animatedly with Henri, the moment Kurt spoke to an officer and then strode quickly from the room, her heart told her he had gone.

It told her, too, the moment he returned, stood watching the dancing couples from the doorway. Like a magnet, she felt her eyes drawn to his. Then, amazed, realized that he had been looking for her. He crossed the room quickly toward her.

"Excuse me, sir," he said, laying a hand on Henri's arm, "I have a message for Miss Merrill." Then, with that quick, infectious grin, "I promise to bring her back to you right away."

Mute, Stephanie let him guide her out of the long room into the deserted library. By the time he turned to face her, to take her hands in his, she had her trembling under control.

"Stephanie, I wanted to tell you," he began, his blue eyes searching hers. "I've just had orders of course. Only the Colonel knows where we're going. But I've a hunch this is no joy ride. I wanted to say—goodbye."

"Goodbye?" she echoed in a dry little whisper. "How—long do you think you'll be gone?"

He shrugged. "Who knows?" His fingers tightened around hers. "That's why this is—goodbye."

"Good luck, then, and—" she dragged her glance away from his, "—happy landings."

"Thanks. I've got to skip back to quarters now and get my gear packed up. Will you make my apologies to Vicky and the others?"

Stephanie concentrated on the second button of his coat. "Certainly. They will all want me to thank you for a lovely evening."

A lovely evening, she wept silently.

The Kiss

Suddenly, one finger under her chin, Kurt tilted her face until she had to look at him. "You're so damned sweet," — between clenched teeth. Then he kissed her. A swift crushing caress that bound her to him forever even as the gesture of the next moment put him out of reach forever.

"Forgive that one, Stephanie," he apologized instantly — and heartbreakingly. "And—goodbye now."

"Goodbye."

For a long moment she stood staring at the doorway that had swallowed him up. He had gone. She would probably never see him again. Ever. And with him, she realized suddenly, had gone part of herself.

Henri found her then, carried her back to the dancing, the laughter, the gayety. And finally she found poise enough to give them Kurt's message.

"Oh how enfuriating," Vicky frowned. "That means his whole squadron will probably be sent and that absolutely decimates my cocktail party tomorrow.

Stephanie laughed, an acrid imitation of her real laugh. "That is a disaster!"

"Well it is. I've planned this party for weeks."

"And now," Henri smiled apologetically, "I'm afraid I, too, will have to express my regrets, Vicky."

Vicky turned to him, her lovely brows arched. "You too? But surely you aren't flying under any secret orders tonight?"

Flying under secret orders! Stephanie repeated that silently while Henri explained about his sudden urgent business in the city.

And later when she'd undressed, stood a moment at Aunt Allison's guest room window watching the moon silver the broad fields stretching toward the Bay, she was suddenly aware of the growing thunder of airplane motors. Like a giant swarming of Gargantuan bumble bees, the drone came out of the north. Westward now—high over the Golden Gate—out over the vast black world of the Pacific.

"Goodbye Kurt," she whispered. "God keep you safe—my love." And turning, stumbled to the bed where she buried her sobs in her pillow.

Vicky's party was very gay. An hour of telephoning that next morning had soon filled the gaps in the guest list that Kurt's Squadron had left. And Vicky, looking her best in a lovely fuschia tea-gown, seemed already to have forgotten Kurt and the others. But Stephanie hadn't. She even felt a growing irritation that the party should succeed, that life should go on so calmly when fifty boys were "somewhere in the Pacific" risking their lives because their duty demanded it.

On The Pier

She passed hors d'oeuvres dicedly and wished that something would happen to grant her an excuse to leave. The something did happen.

One of Aunt Allison's white-capped maids brought summons to the telephone. It was Maguire. Calling from Titan. There'd been an explosion. Her father was hurt. They were sending him to San Francisco at once, in the power launch.

By leaving a note for Vicky with the maid and by driving one of Aunt Allison's cars practically in defiance of all laws of gravity and state highway, Stephanie got to the pier just as the launch from Titan pulled in.

He looked up, grinned, waved a bandaged hand toward her.

"Daddy, are you hurt badly?" she called and raced down the dock.

He shook his head, climbed over the side slowly but unassisted. "No, honey, just a bad burn on my arm here. Nothing that won't be all right in a few days."

Are you sure?" She took his good arm, hugged it close. What happened? Tell me."

"Oh, just a stupid accident." He glanced around then smiling but Stephanie caught the wary alertness in his eyes.

More than a stupid accident, all right. She knew that. And knew also that he didn't consider it wise to discuss it here where they might easily be overheard. She followed his glance now to the deck of a small fishing boat lying alongside the launch. A stolid Japanese fisherman sat cross-legged on the deck mending a net. The stiff Bay breeze brought the sharp smell of fish and Stephanie then wrinkled her nose.

"Goodness, let's go."

As they walked back along the dock toward the street, their heads bent against the battering wind, someone in a dark blue overcoat strode past. From the tail of her eyes, Stephanie caught something familiar. Turning, she looked back over her shoulder.

A tall man, strangely familiar, walked casually to the edge of the dock, stood a moment studying the dingy little fishing boat. Then, glancing up as if to make sure he was not observed, he looked squarely at Stephanie.

It was Henri de la Pagerie.

He smiled then, waved, started toward her. But even as she answered that smile, she could not forget that strange notion that impeccable Henri, the perfect diplomat, had certainly intended to board that smelly little fishing boat! That, despite his smile, seeing her was not exactly a pleasant surprise!

HOG PRICE ADVANCE HALTED THIS WEEK

Sensational Five-Month Climb Comes to End.

CHICAGO, April 18—The hog market's sensational advance of the past five months, which has added more than $4 per hundredweight to prices and increased the value of each animal marketed 40 per cent, was halted this week.

With the office of price administration setting a new base period for computing wholesale pork ceilings which, in effect, lowered those ceilings, traders were busy endeavoring to discover what constituted the probable maximum hog price level under the new regulations. There is no ceilings on live hogs, but freezing wholesale pork automatically creates resistance to advancing hog prices.

It is not easy to compute the theoretical hog top. Each packer has his own set of ceilings, depending upon the highest prices at which he sold pork cuts between Feb. 16 and Feb. 20, and there are also certain exceptions to the general freeze order. Sales to the agricultural marketing administration, for example, may be made at prices above wholesale tops.

Some traders, however, felt the new wholesale pork ceilings did not justify packers' paying more than $13 a hundredweight for hogs since wholesale pork could sell no higher than levels that prevailed when hogs were around $13 or less. The top price this week was $14.65 a hundredweight and the highest daily average $14.51.

The hog market reacted to the OPA ruling with a dramatic plunge. From the 18 year peak, prices fell about 50 cents a hundred pounds in the sharpest break since America's entry into the war. There was a mild rally Friday, which was considered normal in view of the sharp drop. The week closed with average price slightly above $14 and the top at $14.25.

Steers hit a top of $17, a new high since 1937, in a market which was generally 25 cents higher for the week. Dressed beef was firm and the absence of weighty cattle resulted in a reduction in beef tonnage.

Lamb prices closed steady to 25 cents higher with a top at $13.15.

St. Louis, New York Pace American Loop Clubs; Braves Lead National League

Mel Ott Bounced from Game as Boston Wins 4 to 3; Yanks Win 1 to 0 Pitchers' Duel.

By The Associated Press

If there's a more startling sight in this young baseball season than the Boston Braves on top of the National league, it's Melvin Ott of the New York Giants being bounced from a game for arguing with an umpire.

It took Ott only four days to crash the circle once dominated by Leo Durocher and Frankie Frisch, and that amazing maneuver kept the Braves in their unfamiliar position at the head of the parade.

The score was 1 to 1 at Boston yesterday afternoon, with Hal Schumacher of the Giants and Dick Errickson of the Braves locked in a pitching duel.

Ott's home run in the top half of the fourth inning tied it up after Nanny Fernandez sent the Braves out in front with a four-bagger of his own, one of the two hits off Schumacher in three frames.

Fernandez Walks

The Braves' Fernandez led off with a walk, Paul Waner forced the runner at second, and Umpire Ziggy Sears ruled that Waner reached first base ahead of the throw on the attempted double play.

Ott charged in from right field and Schumacher and Shortstop Billy Jurges, the Giants' captain, joined him in argument.

Sears jerked his thumb toward the clubhouse and the Giants new boss, who had been tossed out of only three games in 16 years as a major leaguer, headed for the showers—loser of the first debate in his managerial career. Sears also chased Jurges and Schumacher.

Harry Feldman, with no warm-up, replaced Schumacher. Three hits and a walk produced three runs and that was the ball game. Johnny Mize whittled the margin down for the Giants with a sixth-inning home run and a trio of blows added another tally in the seventh, but Rookie Johnny Sain stopped the Giants to save the 4-3 decision for the Braves.

Meanwhile, the New York Yankees and the St. Louis Browns continued along their unbeaten ways in the American league.

The world champion Yanks dropped the Boston Red Sox from the ranks of the undefeated with a 1-0 shutout, Charlie Keller's single scoring the run. Ernie Bonham of the Yankees and Oscar Judd of the Sox both went the route. Boston collected six hits to New York's five. It was the Yanks' fourth victory in a row.

The Browns kept pace with the champions by nosing out the Detroit Tigers, 7-6, although they also were outhit, 12-10.

Bill Knickerbocker's tenth inning home run gave the Athletics a 5-4 victory over the Washington Senators at Philadelphia after Bob Johnson had brought the A's from behind with a tying homer in the ninth.

The Brooklyn Dodgers downed the Philadelphia Phils, 7-1, as Johnny Allen hurled six-hit ball, and the Pittsburgh Pirates tripped the St. Louis Cardinals, 3-2.

LYONS SCATTERS 7 HITS TO DEFEAT CLEVELAND 1 TO 0

Jim Bagby To Oppose Edgar Smith in Second of Series.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, April 18 — Jim Bagby, the Indian's only victory pitcher of this year, was called upon today to repeat his performance against Southpaw Edgar Smith and the Chicago White Sox—1 to 0 victors in the Tribe's home opener yesterday.

Bagby, making his first attempt to go the full route, weakened in the ninth of the season's opener at Detroit and had to be relieved, but gained credit for the Tribe's only 1942 victory.

Harder allowed four hits in seven innings before retiring for a pinch hitter.

The Chisox only run came in the second inning when Johnny Lodigiani singled home Myril Hoag who had doubled with one out.

Redleg Errors Cost Vander Meer Win

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, April 18 — Big Paul Derringer, striving for the 200-games-won mark this year, today went against Claude Passeau of the Chicago Cubs after the first of a score of victories he needs.

Paul showed his oldtime form in spring training, but death of his baby son and illness of his little daughter separated him from the club for most of the week before the season opened.

Derringer won't have the hitting support of Rightfielder Ival Goodman. Goody was struck in the right elbow by a thrown ball in practice yesterday. X-rays failed to show a fracture, but the arm was badly swollen.

Jimmy Gleeson started in Goodman's place yesterday when poor fielding support and too many walks beat Johnny Vander Meer 3-2.

Rookie Bert Haas had another error, a wild throw, and Lonnie Frey coupled a misplay with Haas in the fifth to give the Cubs an unearned run. Two singles and a walk filled the bases for the Cubs in the seventh, and Vandy walked one run across while Lou Novikoff chased another in by a long fly.

BUCK BASEBALLERS BEAT MICHIGAN STATE 5 TO 3

Purdue and Northwestern Grab Big Ten Lead.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, April 18 — Purdue and Northwestern have replaced Illinois and Iowa as the pace setters in the young Big Ten conference baseball race.

Purdue, in its first league start yesterday, knocked off the Illini, 6 to 2. Northwestern's season's debut wound up in a wild 21 to 9 victory over Chicago.

Iowa bowed to five-hit pitching of Johnny Logan, who fanned eight men as Indiana won, 7-0.

It was the first defeat in three starts for both Iowa and Illinois.

In non-conference contests yesterday, Michigan defeated Virginia, 6 to 5; Ohio State turned back Michigan State, 5 to 3, and Minnesota blanked Gustavus Adolphus, 9 to 0. The one loser was Wisconsin, which bowed to Western Michigan, 9 to 6.

BIRDS REPEAT A.A. WIN OVER INDIANS

Hartnett's Charges Lose, 6-5; Van Mungo Defeated.

By The Associated Press

The American association apparently is out to make it none too easy for a couple of former National league stars—Gabby Hartnett and Van Lingle Mungo.

Hartnett, formerly with the Cubs and Giants and now managing Indianapolis, took over his first minor league catching chore in years yesterday. But his Indians lost their second in a row to the champion Columbus Red Birds, 6 to 5.

Mungo, the former Brooklyn pitcher who objected to playing at Minneapolis because he said it was too cold, never was given a chance to warm up by Kansas City batters. They chilled his association debut in three innings, with four hits, including a homer by Steve Suchock. Will Lefebvre then took over. Mungo escaped being charged with defeat, however, for Minneapolis rallied in the last three innings to win, 5 to 3.

Milwaukee, prevented by weather from getting the season underway Thursday, came through yesterday and whipped St. Paul, 6 to 5. Louisville rallied for one run in the ninth that brought a 4 to 3 victory and evened up their current series with Toledo.

Two Cleveland Fighters Crowned A.A.U. Champs

By The Associated Press

BOSTON, April 18 — Eastern battlers today held half of the national A. A. U.'s eight 1942 boxing championships.

Other crowns were won by a pair of clever Cleveland negroes, a terrific slugging St. Louis light heavyweight and a Filipino bantamweight from New Orleans.

New champs include Jimmy Marlo of Albany, N. Y., 135-pound class; Robert McQuillan of Lackawanna, N. Y., 135-pounds; Willard Buckless of nearby Saugus, 147-pounds; Paul Kroner of Pittsburgh, heavyweight, and Bernard Docussen of New Orleans, 118 pounds.

The winning Clevelanders were 112-pound Leroy Jackson, who out-boxed Ralph McNeil of Newark, N. J., and Samson Powell, a middleweight.

Tank Star To Turn Pro

NYACK, N. Y. — Gloria Callen, glamour girl of the swimming pools, is learning to make left turns.

Yes, the national outdoor backstroke champion is taking lessons again. Her tendency is to turn right as she reaches the end of a pool and heads back. This, she finds, sometimes loses her precious fractions of a second. A champion should be able to turn either way, so Gloria's first coach, Walter Spence, is teaching her how to make that left turn.

Gloria, a frequent record-smasher last year, has continued her assaults this winter and spring. She's averaged almost one broken record a week for 1942, with 13 to her credit now.

Wants To Write Sports

Why is she so anxious to break records? Well, this may be the reason: She may not be eligible for amateur competition much longer. Rumors persist that she may go to Hollywood or become a model. What does Gloria say? She just smiles and says she's glad the movies are interested in her.

She insists she'd rather be a newspaper writer, preferably a sports writer, but Hollywood does pay better!

Despite all the time she spends practicing and dashing around the East to swimming meets, Gloria manages to keep well up in her studies at Nyack high school here. She will be graduated this year and—if she thumbs down on professional offers—she'll go to college next fall.

Holds 30 Records

Gloria holds 30 National records now and she's proudest of one she acquired a few weeks ago—the 100-meter mark. In March she swam the distance in the New York Athletic Club pool in one minute, 14.6 seconds, chopping a second and a half off Eleanor Holm's 1935 time.

There's no telling what may come up between now and then but, if she's still eligible, Gloria will defend her national outdoor backstroke crown in the August championships at Neenah, Wis.

Gloria Callen . . . may desert amateur ranks, soon.

BOB PASTOR DEFEATS CLEVELAND NEGRO

Bivins Wins Two Out of 10 Rounds.

CLEVELAND, April 18—Jimmy Bivins dynamited a surprised Bob Pastor to the floor twice last night in the first round of their Cleveland arena fight—but before warfare ended tricky Robert turned things into just another warmup for his expected summer shot at Joe Louis.

Entering the ring 11-5 favorite and with a weight advantage of nearly seven pounds over the Cleveland Negro, Pastor quickly discovered he couldn't be careless with the man who recently made Light Heavyweight Champion Gus Lesnevich look silly in a non-title go.

Left-right-left and Robert hit the rosin for a count of two. Only a half-minute later, two snappy lefts sent him down again, this time for three seconds.

"I wasn't hurt, I was just surprised," the heavyweight contender explained later.

The Saratoga Springs, N. Y., scrapper lost the second round, too, while recovering from those jarring blows. Then he whaled away at Bivins' mid-section, gave as good as he took and on the Associated Press score sheet, won seven of the remaining eight stanzas, with the fifth even.

Bob's weight of 183 pounds against the loser's 176¼ didn't hurt him as he won his 12th scrap in a row. It took Referee Joe Sedley's ballot for the 2-1 official decision, since the judges split in their verdict.

80 Qualifying Sites Listed for "Hale America" National Open Golf Tourney

Expect Record Entry List To Top 1,400: Tournament Replaces National Open.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK—Eighty regional qualifying sites have been selected for the "Hale America" National Open golf tourney, the competition which links officials hope will keep the players swinging this summer for fun, for health and for the emergency funds of the armed services.

The 72-hole final of the meet, which replaces the war-canceled National Open, is slated for Chicago's Ridgemoor Country club, June 18 to 21, with the Naval Relief society and the United Service organizations as the financial beneficiaries.

Begin May 24

Seventy-eight of the regional 36-hole qualifying meets will be held on Monday, May 25, the other two a day earlier.

The regional qualifying meets will be followed by 54-hole sectional tourneys with from 30 to 60 players advancing from the first round to each of the 12 second rounds meets early in June.

Eighty members of the expected 100-man Chicago field will be determined in the sectionals, the remaining 20 being exempt from qualifying because of previous records.

The entry fee for the three tiered competition is $5, with both pros and amateurs with less than a sixstroke handicap eligible. All the money received from the fees and admissions, except for a few minor expenses, will be converted into war bonds. The handicap for amateurs in the regulation open was three or less.

At least $1,200 of the bonds will be included in the $6,000 pot for which the pros will be playing.

The remainder of the bonds will be purchased from the tournament committee by the United States Golf association. The cash then will be divided 50-50 between the Naval Relief society and USO.

Joseph Dey, executive secretary of the USGA who is aiding the Hale America group expects the record entry list of 1,402 for the 1937 National Open to be surpassed easily.

Dey also explained that the Hale America Open is in addition to the club tourneys which the same group is sponsoring on Memorial day, Independence day and Labor day from which the Red Cross will benefit.

Similar club tourneys held on July 4 in 1917 and 1918 netted the Red Cross $210,000 with approximately 525 clubs cooperating.

Ohio qualifying sites for the 36-hole regional tourneys May 25 are: Akron, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Columbus and Dayton.

Army, Navy Relief Funds To Receive Proceeds of 16 Game

Minor Leagues Expected To Participate in Unified Money Raising Drive.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, April 18—Baseball is in the war now—with a unified fund raising program for Army and Navy relief and a double-decker All-Star series.

Every major league club has agreed to set aside the entire receipts of one home game to be divided equally between the Army Emergency Relief fund and the Navy Relief society, and as many minor league clubs as are financially able will join in the movement.

These same service charities also will receive everything over $100,000 that is taken in at the two All-Star games. The first will be the usual clash between the National and American leagues All Stars at the Polo Grounds in New York July 6. The second will match this winner with a service team at Cleveland's municipal stadium July 7.

These arrangements were agreed upon during three days of conferences between Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis, major and minor league executives and representatives of the Army and Navy.

The problem of selecting standout players now in the Army, Navy and Marines is still to be worked out.

If the men are available without interference with the successful prosecution of the war, Landis put it, the service could send this formidable line on the field:

Pitcher—Bob Feller, Indians.
Catcher — Frank Pytlak, White Sox.
First Base — Hank Greenberg, Tigers.
Second Base — Benny McCoy, Athletics.
Shortstop — Cecil Travis, Senators.
Third Base—Harry Lavagetto, Dodgers.
Left Field—Buddy Lewis, Senators.
Center Field — Pat Mullin, Tigers.
Right Field — Sam Chapman, Athletics.
Lieut. Gordon (Mickey) Cochrane, former manager of the Detroit Tigers and now a recreation officer at the Great Lakes Naval Training Station, is considered certain to pilot the team.

Ohio Sports Chatter

By FRITZ HOWELL
Associated Press Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, O., April 18—Here and there in Ohio—or what's doing on the Buckeye sports front!

Frederick E. Cope, faculty manager of athletics at Salem High school, has mailed invitations to 150 Ohio, Pennsylvania and West Virginia scholastic squads, asking their participation in the 13th annual Salem Night Relays, May 2.

Noting the invitations to the out-of-state teams, H. R. Townsend, Ohio high school athletic commissioner, declared the "Pennsylvania and West Virginia teams must come from within 75 miles of Salem."

The Salem event is the oldest night relay meet in the United States. The host school won the title five times, but Cleveland East Tech has taken the last two years, and will try to make it three straight. Cope said several of Ohio State university's stars would offer exhibitions during the evening, and predicted the largest entry in the meet's history.

• • •

W. Harold Anderson, who recently resigned his Toledo university basketball job to become athletic director at Bowling Green state university, will teach other mentors how to build cage teams at a June 8-12 coaching school.

Many of the larger coaching schools have been discontinued because of the war, but Anderson said three subjects would be considered in his five-day session. Anderson, who recently piloted the Toledo Rockets to the semi-finals of the Madison Square Garden tournament, will teach basketball. Bob Whittaker, Bee-Gee football coach, will handle the football end, while Trainer Joe Glancy will demonstrate physio-therapy and training methods.

Misses Cost Indiana Kegler Singles Lead

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 18—Two seven-pin counts in his final game cost George Ludeman, 41-year-old Fort Wayne, Ind., machine operator, the singles leadership in the American Bowling Congress tournament.

Missing the headpin twice, Ludeman wound up with a 745 total, just one pin under the leading score rolled Sunday by Nelson Burton of St. Louis, to capture second place in the singles, the only change among the leaders in any event yesterday.

With an all-events score of 1817, Walter Ward of Cleveland skidded out of first place in the 10-year averages and permitted Ned Day of West Allis, Wis., to take over the leadership again. Day's average is 203 plus 12 pins, while Ward's is 202 plus 59 pins for 90 games.

Special to The Star

UPPER SANDUSKY, April 18 — A customer who kept service station operator John W. Walters busy for several minutes in servicing his car lifted $11 from the cash drawer of the Lauber station at the junction of Routes 23 and 30 in Upper Sandusky.

A heavy set man about 40 years old, wearing a grey lumber coat drove in and asked for water in his radiator. Mr. Walters explained, then he walked inside and bought a bottle of pop. He asked to see a map of Ohio, then decided to buy five gallons of gas.

Mr. Walters pumped the five gallons and was just hanging up the hose when the stranger called out from inside the building and increased his order to 5 dollars worth.

By the time he had added the extra gas the man came out of the station building, handed Mr. Walters two half dollars, and drove away. Walking inside to deposit the sale in the cash drawer, the station operator found his customer had pilfered the cash drawer, probably including the two half dollars he had used to pay for his gas.

WOMAN'S CLASS MEETS.

The first Sunday school class ever attended was formed by members of the Loyal Woman's class of Central Christian Sunday school to open a birthday party meeting Thursday afternoon at the church. It was voted to send a money belt to a young man from the church in army service. Mrs. Myron Kennedy gave a history of the class and Mrs. Earl Harrod and Mrs. Avis Clark sang a duet. Mrs. Oscar Noe read a paper, "Gladness of Liberty." Hostesses were Mrs. Myron Kennedy, Mrs. E. Coil Capell, Mrs. Oscar Noe and Mrs. J. C. Miller. Magnolia bloom decorated the table arranged for lunch.

AID CIRCLE MEETS.

Mrs. Joseph Roby was an associate hostess when Circle No. 3, Ladies Aid society of First Presbyterian church, met Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Jack Gickler of East Walnut street. Mrs. Joseph Yarnitell conducted devotions and Mrs. George Howser the Bible study. Annual reports were given. Mrs. Joseph N. Hamilton was enrolled as a member. Tea was served.

THE COAL FACTS
TAKE NO CHANCES ON THE HEALTH OF YOUR FAMILY NEXT WINTER!
ORDER YOUR NEXT WINTER'S SUPPLY OF COAL NOW — ALL OF IT!
Every day the problem of transporting war materials and supplies becomes more difficult.
It requires tens of thousands of cars to transport coal from the mines to this market. Every pound of coal that can be hauled between now and July 1st will release additional cars for the hauling of materials next fall and winter.
Take no chances on the health of your family next winter. Buy your coal now, store it in your basement, your garage, your barn, or, if necessary, build a shack—but get it in now.
There is an abundance of coal in the United States—probably enough to last us a thousand years. But coal in the mines of coal that can not be shipped ... will do you no good—it will do us no good. Then too, all of us have the problem of conserving our rubber, our trucks and our man-power.

WHEAT GAIN FAILS TO HOLD GROUND

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, April 18 — Reports of a bombing raid on Japan touched off a rally in grain prices today but the full advance could not be held.

Recovering from the five-months lows established yesterday, wheat pushed upward for gains of as much as a cent at one time. Other grains followed.

Strength of securities helped to stimulate buying, largely represented by purchases of dealers covering previous short sales, but there was no material improvement in milling and flour trade activity. Farmers continued to redeem 1941 wheat still under government loans, paying off obligations on 3,800,000 bushels during the week ending April 11 and turning 1,300,000 over to the government in default. The amount of 1941 corn under loan increased almost 8,000,000 bushels that week, largest gain for some time.

Wheat closed ⅝-¾ cent higher than yesterday, May $1.19 ⅝-¾, July $1.21 ⅛-.22; corn unchanged to ⅜ up, May 85 ⅝, July 88 ⅝-½; oats off to ⅛ up; rye ¼-½ higher; soybeans unchanged to ⅝ higher.

JAP BOMBING STIRS STOCKS

Follows Drop To New Low After Laval's Restoration in Vichy Government.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, April 18—Prices in the stock exchange stiffened a little today on the official Japanese reports that American planes had bombed areas in Tokyo and other Nippon cities.

This news came as a welcome relief after the week's sharp fall in prices to nine-year lows in the wake of Pierre Laval's restoration to power in the Vichy government.

Leading stocks made a fairly good showing with gains of fractions to a point or so. Short covering accelerated the move but later certain pivotals slipped into old habits and retreated under the previous day's finals. However, modest advances predominated at the close. Volume was around 175,000 shares.

While the evidence of the American air force's striking power supplied by Tokyo made for greater confidence in financial offices and boardrooms, a still very limited buying drive in the market suggested remaining fears of repercussions from the ravages at Vichy and worry over Burma and India.

Dimming the rally somewhat was the action of U. S. Steel and American Telephone. The former lost ground after a higher opening while Telephone was under water throughout. Both fell to new lows for a year or longer.

Gains were retained by Allied Chemical, Eastman Kodak, Johns-Manville, Westinghouse, Union Carbide, Sears Roebuck and Chrysler.

Advanced prices were posted in the curb for Republic Aviation, United Gas and Aluminum of America. American Export Lines pushed up about 2¼. Creole Petroleum, Brewster Aero and Gulf Oil were down fractions.

Wool Market Quiet, Boston Paper Reports

By The Associated Press

BOSTON, April 18—The Commercial Bulletin reported today:

"The wool market, quiet up to mid-week, has been more active as mills which have been given government contracts have been taking up options which they had taken against these contracts, especially scoured wools for blankets and shirtings.

"The movement in worsted wools, not noteworthy this week, probably will become more active from now on."

Foreign primary markets are not greatly damaged for the week. High war risk insurance rates have been put into effect from the cape and river plate. Wool is being shipped steadily from Australia and well over 300 million pounds has already arrived for the government strategic reserve.

"Mohair prices are hardly changed."

The newspaper published these Ohio quotations:

Domestic fleeces—Delaine unwashed 43-48; ½ blood combing 45-47; ¾ blood combing 51-52; ¼ blood combing 51-52.

Two New Programs To Make Debuts Tonight

Two premieres highlight tonight's network programs.

The other, on NBC at 10:15, starts a weekly series in which the AFL and the CIO will alternate under the general theme of "Labor for Victory." William Green, president of the AFL, and Robert P. Patterson, undersecretary of war, will be heard in the first program.

The daily weather map of the United States was first published by the government in 1871.

Reducing a Lifetime Job That Takes Will Power

ONE OF MY readers who is quite irritated with me has pointed out to me that everything I say about prescribing diets to reduce weight is impractical. "How," he says, "can a person who lives in a family like ours a reducing diet when the housewife has to provide for five people, four of whom do not need a reducing diet?"

My dear fellow, this is a very simple question and it is one that can be solved with the slightest amount of ingenuity. The person who is reducing does not have to eat everything that all the other four members of the family eat and reducing is a matter primarily of quantity, not quality.

Of course, some foods are more concentrated and more nutritious than others and these are naturally left out of a reducing diet, but in nearly every meal served in a household, there are some foods that can be selected by the reducer and eaten in preference to the concentrated fatty and carbohydrate foods.

Of course, nobody supposes that reducing is an easy job, and the overweight person is just as weak minded as anyone else and the reason he got fat in the first place was that he constantly gave down to a temptation to eat and the habit still clings to him. So much is this true, that some of my friends will not accept a patient for reducing unless the patient agrees to spend a year in the hospital.

A year is a long time and you must also remember that they lock the patient in his room and they have special nurses who are known to be trustworthy so that they will not sneak food in to the patient. Also, all the relatives are searched before they go in to see the patient to see that they don't have any marshmallows, chocolate bars or soft drink bottles concealed on their persons.

Now if you want to go through this sort of torture, you have my full consent to do so. If you have the courage and the character to sit at the family table and select from the family meal what is good for you, that is the alternative.

A friend of mine once listed the real causes of what makes a fat person fat. They include:

The generous father
The fond mother
The genial host
The good cook
The persuasive grocer
The attentive waiter
The business luncheon
The public banquet
The idle life.

Long ago Celsus, the great Roman physician said: "When food is to be taken, it is never proper to overload."

If anybody thinks that reducing is an easy job that can be taken care of by prescriptions and medicines, with no will power and self-determination beforehand, he had better get that out of his head. It is not only a hard job, it is a lifelong job.

Pitfalls of Love

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge Wants to Know What Hospital Plans Have Been Made for Gangsters and Decides to Go Back.

"WHAT does he want to know?" the old professor said a bit testily.

"He says first," Watson told him reassuringly, "that you don't need to worry one bit. He's leaving a man on guard who knows all about the electric system you've got and the plumbing. He'll have his own cot and blankets and rustle his own food, but he wants to know where you want him to sleep. He also wants to know about the electric refrigerator. Do you want him to shut it off?"

"Not if the man knows electricity," the old man decided. "But tell him to defrost it when it's necessary. Tell him also to use up whatever food is in the refrigerator, and to take what he needs from the supplies in the pantry. He can sleep in the room where they had us tied, just off the living room. There's a good comfortable bed-sofa in there, and he'll find linen, blankets and pillows in the closet off the bathroom. He won't need any cot. I'll probably be back inside of a week anyway."

I sent a furtive glance at Charles, for I had a conviction that he would decide when it would be safe for the older man to return home. But he uttered no word of comment on the old professor's statement.

"All right, then," Watson said. "I'll go back and tell him that. But he told me to ask you to hold your cars here until they come through. They're taking along the gangster's armored car, which wasn't damaged, and they are coming back this way to get to the hospital quicker. Gus can stand and watch there where he did before. I'll come back that far with them and drop off and join Gus. When he sees us coming he can signal you to be ready to follow us down the road. Is that all right?"

He looked at me as he asked the question, and I gave an approving nod.

Madge To See Captain

"It couldn't be better," I said. "But," as I rose from my seat, "I'm going back with you. I must speak to the captain about that hospital idea."

The man named Charles, surprisingly, made a quick involuntary gesture of dissent, but he spoke no word of protest. Gus, however, was voluble.

"Your father wouldn't like that, Missis Graham," he said.

"He would approve if he knew why I was going, Gus," I said firmly. "You may come along if you like."

"I was coming anyway," he returned obstinately. "But couldn't I tell the captain what you want him to know?"

"I am sorry, Gus," I told him with equal stubbornness, "but I must see for myself what can be done."

"I know what you mean," he said comprehendingly, "but I wish you'd let me do it. That ain't no sight for a lady back there, I'll bet—everything all messed up and—"

"There's nobody dead, is there?" I asked sharply, with a sudden suspicion that Watson had been keeping something back.

"No ma'am," Watson said, "nor anybody in any danger of dying. There's really no reason why you shouldn't go back if you want to."

I know something of New England women and their pioneer heritage. If they make up their minds to face any emergency, it is a rash man who attempts to shield them from unpleasantness, or to stand in their way. I guessed that Jim Watson had learned this lesson in his youth and never had forgotten it.

"Even if there had been death, I should have to see the captain," I told him. "Let us start now. We mustn't delay him any longer than is necessary."

"You won't be delaying him," Watson replied. "They're pretty busy giving first aid just now. We'll have plenty of time to walk there and back again, unless I can turn Branchman's car around and drive you back."

Madge Decides to Walk

"That would be absurd," I told him, "as long as we are not delaying the captain. I am used to walking, and can cover the ground quite rapidly.

"I'll say you can," Watson said admirably. "I saw you running across the lawn. Then if everything's settled, let's get going. The captain will begin to wonder what's keeping me."

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

A. M. M.: "A short time ago you advised a reader to avoid a surgical operation in a case of fallen stomach and to correct it by exercise and taking on weight. Can a fallen bladder and rectum be successfully treated in this way, or would surgery be necessary?"

Answer: There is a successful surgical operation for fallen bladder and rectum. Owing to the anatomical conditions present, it is the treatment of choice.

D. K.—"Is there any way of getting rid of dropsy in the feet and ankles caused by pregnancy?"

Answer: This is probably due to pressure on the veins and will go away eventually without treatment. Exercise is good for it.
